By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Carl Selmer, for 11 years an assistant under Bob Devaney at Nebraska, and Jim Walden, another former Cornhusker assistant, will bring their first Miami Hurricane football team to NU's Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon.

It won't be an ordinary Miami team, as last week's 10-17 near-miss against top-ranked Oklahoma attests. It will be a team that Coach Tom Osborne of the Huskers says "is for real."

Kickoff will be at 1:30 p.m. in what forecasters promise will be sunny and quite warm weather — near 80 degrees at kickoff. There will be southerly winds 15 to 25 miles an hour, with gusts to 35 mph.

Although professional oddsmakers have installed Nebraska as a 23½ point favorite, the game should be just as close and exciting as the very well lost to the Sooners last Friday in the one Miami Orange Bowl.

The Huskers, fourth-rated and undefeated in three stars, own an edge Oklahoma didn't have against Miami. The Sooners were more than five-against-Miami favorites and appeared flat against the aggressive and physical Miami team.

That game served as a warning to Nebraska that it will take an all-out effort to remain undefeated going into next week's Big Eight Conference opener here against Kansas.

Miami, buoyed by its play against OU, won't be going into the contest afraid of the Huskers.

Coaches' Capsules

Carl Selmer, Miami: "I have no more feeling to beat Nebraska than anybody else. I'd like to beat Nebraska because I have yet to win a football game as a head coach. The time I win will be very sweet. I'm not here trying to prove and compare who's the better coach — Tom Osborne or me."

Tom Osborne, Nebraska: "Our defense is playing well, but we really haven't played a good offensive football team yet. Miami appears to be our toughest game so far. Miami has to have some very fine athletes to play Oklahoma that tough. On that given night, on that given field, Miami deserved to beat Oklahoma."

thought the edge in preparation for the game went to Miami, but Osborne disagrees.

"They've (Miami) gotten away more and more from what we're doing here," the Husker coach said. "Offensively, they run an I-slot and some of the plays we do, but they also run a pro-set with a veer offense. So, they really can't get into the I' as much as we do because of the other formation they're running."

On defense, Osborne said it's difficult to tell what they're doing because they've been against a wishbone formation teams in their first two games, losses to Georgia Tech 38-23 and Oklahoma 20-17.

"Last week, for instance, they primarily played what you would call the old Missouri defense," Osborne said. That means the Hurricanes have used eight or more players near the line of scrimmage because of the lack of a consistent pass threat.

"Yet, I don't think that is their basic defense," Osborne continued. "I think they're still primarily a 5-2 defense, but they seem to be willing to go into variations, or different types of defenses, probably more than we would here. We'd really have to change our whole theory around to jump into a Missouri defense."

Miami comes into the game ranked No. 2 in the nation in pass defense, but because the first two games were against wishbone teams, the defense really hasn't been tested. Georgia Tech tried just four passes (completed three for 60 yards) and Oklahoma threw only six times (one complete for 13 yards, but two intercepted).

Even though Miami has a fine passing attack (26 of 51 for 420 yards), the aerial game of the Huskers could prove the difference against a Miami defensive backfield that includes two sophomores who never saw varsity action before this season, a pair of juniors (one of whom has played but little previously), and a sophomore who saw some action as a freshman.

Nebraska has passed for 445 yards on a 591 completion average, including six touchdowns, and has had 13 different players catch aerials. The Huskers also have rushed for 761 yards.

Nebraska's defense, second best in the nation against the rush, will prove a problem for Miami, which has picked up just 12 first downs rushing in its first two games.

Path Cleared For Sinai Monitor Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee Friday approved sending 200 Americans to the Sinai to monitor the Israeli-Egyptian peace accord and a Senate committee made public four related U.S. agreements.

The two actions apparently cleared the way for final congressional votes next week on the American civilian monitors on which Egypt and Israel conditioned their Sept. 1 Sinai disengagement agreement.

A resolution approving the technicians was adopted 31 to 0 by the House International Relations Committee, but included a requirement that the monitors be withdrawn in case of hostilities and imposed other conditions.

House Speaker Carl Albert said he hoped to bring the resolution to a vote of the full House by next Thursday.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, over continued objection of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, voted 12 to 2 to publish four documents outlining U.S. assurances to Israel and Egypt.

The documents had been furnished to the congressional committees under a "secret" classification, which Kissinger continued to insist upon in a two-hour closed-door meeting with the Senate committee on Friday, despite the prior leak of the information to newspapers.

The four documents involve:

— U.S.-Israeli understandings on future American aid and diplomatic steps in the Middle East, including promises to help Israel replenish its oil supply in event of a cut-off by Iran following return of the Abu Rudeis oilfield to Egypt.

— U.S.-Israeli understandings on coordinating a diplomatic approach to the reconvening of the Geneva peace conference.

— U.S.-Israeli assurances of consideration of continued U.S. military aid to Israel, including Pershing F16 jet fighters still being developed.

— An understanding with Egypt in which the United States promises consideration of economic aid as well as an effort to arrange peace negotiations between Israel and Syria.

The motion for disclosure was made by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, with co-sponsorship of Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.

Church said that although Kissinger remained opposed to declassification of documents classified by the executive branch, he "understands that the committee has its constitutional role to play."

"I don't expect the secretary to go to the barricades," Church told newsmen. He explained that committee members desire to ask questions based on the documents at public hearings beginning Monday.

Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., said Kissinger is expected to be a witness at the public hearing Tuesday, after which the committee will vote on the resolution to approve the use of American monitors at Sinai early warning surveillance stations.

Percy said he believed the committee decision to declassify the documents was justified in the current situation in which they already have been published in newspapers.

The resolution approved by the House committee specifies that its authority to use American technicians "does not signify approval of the Congress of any other agreement, understanding or commitment made by the executive branch."

It incorporates other restrictions:

— The Americans must be civilians and volunteers.

— They must be withdrawn immediately in the event of new hostilities between Egypt and Israel or if Congress determines that their safety is jeopardized or they are no longer needed.

— The President must submit written reports to Congress at least once every six months on the status and anticipated duration of the use of American monitors and the feasibility of reducing their numbers by substituting nationals of other countries or by making technological changes.

Senate committee members said that they expect to vote on "a similar or identical resolution" after the public hearings are completed Tuesday.

Kissinger assured the committee Thursday, on behalf of President Ford, that all information on U.S. assurances and undertakings connected with the Sinai agreement had been disclosed and that there were no others.

Church said Kissinger told the committee that the four documents it voted to declassify contained all U.S. commitments.

EPA Rulings Puzzle Pollution Officials

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has cleared the way for Lincoln Electric System (LES) to continue burning a limited amount of coal at its K St. power plant.

EPA officials refused to grant Gooch Mills of Lincoln a variance from air pollution laws for its dust emissions.

However, EPA and local air pollution officials said the denial means nothing in a practical sense since Gooch had sought only an extension of the air pollution deadline until Oct. 15.

The twin actions have puzzled air pollution officials and environmentalists who thought EPA would rule differently in both cases.

Rulings Reversed
Some thought EPA would refuse the variance given LES by the State Environmental Control Council and Gov. J. James Exon for air quality reasons but allow the plant to continue burning coal for energy reasons. One EPA official this summer even speculated they might take that course.

In the case of Gooch, no one opposed giving Gooch the additional time to install dust controls during a public hearing this past summer. The deadline for Lincoln and Omaha was July 31, 1975.

Exon has received a letter from EPA regional administrator Jerome Svore approving five air pollution variances given by the state but denying one.

Letter In Transit

The letter Friday apparently was in transit from Exon's office to State Department of Environmental Control attorney Richard Hansen.

Although Lincoln-Lancaster air pollution officials felt Gooch was making a good faith effort to comply with the law, EPA reportedly felt there was not enough data on dust levels to warrant a variance.

In the case of LES, the Environmental Control Council disagreed with the staff, Lincoln-Lancaster air pollution official Gary Walsh, the American Lung Association and the Lancaster County League of Women Voters who opposed a variance for the K St. plant.

Objectors said LES should burn oil instead of coal at the plant to meet air pollution guidelines. LES argued that it had no back-up system for oil if the existing one broke down.

Because the council had only slightly more than a quorum, the few members who questioned the variance were able to limit the burning of coal.

Instead, the council agreed to let LES burn no more than 10,644 tons of coal at the plant for the coming heating season. LES had planned to burn 14,901 tons.

No Violation

Duan, an EPA official in Kansas City, said the variance was granted because EPA officials did not believe burning coal at K St. would violate air quality standards for dust and ash.

"We determined LES wouldn't throw the ambient air quality over the limits," Durst said.

He cited LES data showing that dust and ash levels exceeded the standards at the City-County Building's air sampler on days when LES did not burn coal.

"If the standards are not being met on days when LES is not burning coal, I don't know how we can say they're causing it on other days," Durst said.

Durst acknowledged the data showing the relationship between coal burning and air pollution but said he took into account wind direction and speed as well as other weather conditions.

You might say Amy Campbell was on assignment in the field.

A reporter for the Southeast High School "Clarion," Amy recently suited up with the school's varsity football squad to get an inside angle on the sport and the excitement it generates.

Given the okay by Coach Frank Solich, Amy checked out "spare bits and pieces" of a uniform that would fit her five-foot-nine, 120-pound frame.

Following directions by team student manager Seyquoya Flechs, Amy managed to put all of her padding in the right place after some strange contortions. That was her first clue that there's more to football than meets the eye.

Concentrating on moving her now bulky form, she tripped out to the field on her cleated soles, only to be greeted by incredulous glances from her temporary teammates.

"They were worried it might be for real," Amy laughed. She assured the guys it was all for the sake of a story; Amy clearly had no intentions of becoming Southeast's first female gridder.

For the next two hours the 17-year-old senior did her best to keep up with the team. "They don't realize what good shape they're in," sighed the tennis-playing cheerleader who hadn't doubted her physical fitness.

But she'd agreed to go through the whole practice — "excepting any physical contact . . . darn" — and she did, almost. "Crabbing" up the hill (running on hands and feet) she couldn't handle with her not so strategically placed padding.

Equipped with a mouthpiece, though, Amy ran the drills from the chute to the sled.

When the team got together to run their plays, Amy sat back with the subs, grateful for the rest. So when she heard the coach shout "come on Campbell, get in there and play fullback" it wasn't exactly good news.

She took a hand-off and ran up the middle, relieved that the defensive line just stopped her in her tracks instead of tackling her.

On coach's orders she then moved into the quarterback's slot to run a quarterback sneak play.

The center was "terribly embarrassed," she recalls. Giggling herself, she fumbled the ball and instinctively jumped back while all the guys dove for it. That convinced her she never would have made the team.

Winding up practice with wind sprints, Amy counted her blessings that she was still in one piece.

Two Men Missing In Elevator Blasts

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A series of thundering explosions tore apart a grain elevator here Friday, leaving 20 persons injured and two missing, police and witnesses said.

The explosions were followed by a fierce fire that billowed flames and smoke high into the sky over the Burrard Terminals Ltd. grain facilities on the north shore of the Burrard Inlet.

Police said no deaths had been confirmed "but it would be incredible if there weren't any."

"There were people who had their clothes burned right off them," said Barney Chapman, an electrician at the elevator. "There was an initial explosion and then a second one that went through the whole place. When it hit, I dived for cover."

Police evacuated 12 to 15 blocks of residential area above the terminal complex and conducted a house-to-house search to make certain residents had left.

A witness told reporters the two missing men were on a mezzanine floor, about 200 feet above the first explosion.

Ford Vetoes Child Nutrition Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford vetoed a $2.75 billion child nutrition bill Friday, threatening an end of the school breakfast program which feeds 1.8 million low-income pupils daily.

But Republican and Democratic leaders of the House Education and Labor Committee predicted the veto will be overridden by Congress. Chairman Carl Albert, D-Ky., said the override would carry "with many votes to spare."

In the Senate, Chairman George McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, said the veto "reveals once again the misplaced priorities of the Ford administration." He predicted the veto would be overridden "in less than a week."

Ford said the bill would provide subsidies for non-needy children and "is worse than the programs we now have."

The school lunch program will continue despite the veto because it is authorized on a permanent basis.

The breakfast program along with others providing nutritional meals to low-income mothers, infants and children, also will be continued at least temporarily. They now are being funded under stop-gap legislation that is effective until enactment of a pending Agriculture Department appropriation bill which includes funds for the programs.

When the agricultural appropriation is enacted, the temporary funding stops, cutting off money for the breakfast program and the others. Ford's veto of the nutrition authorization bill would block use of money from the appropriation measure for programs under the authorization bill.

Ford's veto also would kill Congress' plan to expand nutritional subsidies. The vetoed bill would have required schools to offer 20-cent lunches to students whose parents earn more than the poverty level of $5,010 but less than $9,770. Previously, schools were required to offer free lunches for children from families below the poverty level and could be reimbursed by the government if they offered the reduced price lunches.

The vetoed bill also would have made the breakfast program permanent, as the luncheon program is now.

Ford suggested that Congress either extend the present school lunch program or act favorably on his proposal to provide aid for all children from families below the poverty level.

Exercising his 39th veto, the President said: "By extending aid to families not in need, this bill would add $1.2 billion to my budget proposals for the current year. I cannot accept such fiscal irresponsibility when we face the real danger that the budget deficit could reach $70 billion instead of the already high limit of $60 billion I set earlier this year," he said.

The President also said subsidies should not be expanded to families with incomes above the poverty level.

"I believe the way to help most American families is to take actions to hold down inflation and reduce their tax burdens," he said.

Washington — A new presidential campaign fund may not be big enough to provide all the subsidies that parties and candidates will be eligible for in 1976. The fund is expected to total about $105 million, but if all 12 real and potential candidates qualify for primary matching funds, the total drain on fund could exceed that figure.

Unemployment Virtually Same

Washington (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate was 8.3% in September, the ninth consecutive month that it has been above 8%, the Labor Department reported Friday.

Although the September rate was slightly below the August jobless rate of 8.4%, the total number of unemployed was 7.8 million, a drop of only a few thousand during the month.

The Labor Department said there was one bright spot in the figures, an increase of 180,000 in manufacturing employment to a total of 18.4 million.

The Labor Department noted that the unemployment rate remained well above the rate of 5.8% a year ago when the sharp increases in recession-prompted unemployment first began.

It also said that unemployment increased in September in two key job categories — adult men and heads of household, the people who normally are breadwinners for their families.

Unemployment among teenagers, a third key area, declined.

It gave the following breakdown for unemployment by major categories in September, compared to August, with the figures adjusted for seasonal variations:

- Adult men, 7%, up from 6.6% in August.
- Adult women, 7.5%, down from 7.7%.
- Teenagers, 19.3%, down from 21.1%.
- Whites, 7.6%; unchanged.
- Blacks and other races, 14.3%, up from 14%.
- Household heads, 5.7%, up from 5.5%.
- Married men, 5.3%, up from 5%.
- Full-time workers, 8.2%; unchanged.
- White-collar workers, 4.7%, up from 4.6%.
- Blue-collar workers, 11.5%; unchanged.

The Labor Department said the number of hard-core unemployed — people without jobs for 27 weeks or longer — rose to 1.6 million, up from 1.5 million in August, and the highest level in the post-World War II period.

Total September employment of 85.4 million, unemployment of 7.8 million and the labor force of 93.2 million, were changed by only a few thousand from August.

K.C. Firemen On Strike . . . Three Houses Burned

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Three homes were destroyed or heavily damaged by one of 12 fires reported in Kansas City by late Friday, the first day of a strike by city firemen.

Policemen carrying fire extinguishers joined city public works department trucks carrying fire hoses in responding to the fire calls. Additional equipment and manpower was summoned from an Air Force base.

Frank Spink, the city fire director, said one of the fires was a major blaze which spread to three houses on Kansas City's east side.

All occupants were evacuated safely, and the fires were brought under control by a truck and crew summoned from the suburban Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base, Spink said.

No city fire-fighting equipment is being used during the strike. "That's all locked up in the firehouses," he said.

Mayor Charles B. Wheeler said he expected the strike might last three or four days.

He said he felt an afternoon session between city officials and union representatives had been productive, but he said union officials disagreed.

When asked what effect a three or four day strike would have, Wheeler replied: "If Berkeley survived 24 days we can survive longer than that (three or four)." He referred to a prolonged strike of firemen in the California city.

He said stronger legal action against the firefighters union — which has already been ordered to return to work — was imminent.

Some 300 Missouri National Guardsmen were called in to guard the city's 59 fire stations, the fire academy and the fire alarm center. Members of an Air National Guard unit provided fire protection at Kansas City International Airport.

The city's 848 fire fighters are seeking raises of up to $193 a month that would give them the same $15,305-a-year top salary of policemen.

A union spokesman urged the city's 510,000 residents to keep containers of water handy, watch out for their children and pray.

Jackson Withdraws Senate's Hoffa Body Sleuths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., agreed Friday under bipartisan fire from fellow senators to withdraw Senate investigators from the hunt in Michigan for the body of former Teamsters Union president James R. Hoffa.

Both Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Government Operations Committee, and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., its senior Republican, reportedly complained of the manner in which Jackson had detailed staff members of its Permanent Investigations Subcommittee to take part in the search.

They said they were never told about it until it was about to break in the press.

It was learned that one of the complaints was that information about Hoffa from an underworld informant was turned over to Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, who is the manager of the senator's Michigan campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, rather than the FBI.

Jackson said Monday that action was in line with the informant's conditions.

"They will be back here Monday," Jackson said of the two investigators after an hour-long, closed-door meeting of subcommittee members.

Jackson, the subcommittee chairman, declined to say anything further to newsmen.

It was learned, however, that the meeting was initiated by Percy, who reportedly told Jackson he was "outraged" at the manner in which the search for Hoffa's body was conducted.

Percy and some other senators expressed these complaints:

- Neither Percy, the ranking Republican member, nor any other senator was told of the decision to cooperate with an alleged underworld informant who said he could find Hoffa's body.
- The investigators were sent to Michigan alone and unsupervised, where they made allegedly unprofessional and inflammatory statements to the press.
- Committee rules require that the ranking member be notified in advance of all major decisions.
- The investigations subcommittee learned Oct. 28 of the existence of an informant who claimed that a so-called "top Mafia family" was concerned it was being unfairly blamed for Hoffa's disappearance and was willing to produce someone actually involved.

The informant reported that someone who helped bury Hoffa had access to a map purporting to show the gravesite.

Jackson gave the go-ahead order to investigators on Sept. 13, it was learned.

Percy reportedly was not informed of the search until Sept. 27.

Gen. Henry E. Petersen.

"This guy (Hall) is the Peter Lazaros of the West Coast," said one law enforcement official.

Lazaros is a self-styled Mafia informer who told of widespread payoffs to major political figures in Michigan. Lazaros was later convicted of 12 counts of perjury in connection with his allegations.

U.S. War Dead Receive Homage From Hirohito

Washington (UPI) — His bare head bowed, Emperor Hirohito of Japan paid silent homage to America's war dead in Arlington National Cemetery Friday as a bugle blew "Taps" and a chilly breeze ruffled a Japanese floral wreath on the Tomb of the Unknowns.

But for the mournful bugle call, there was not a sound among the sunlit hills of white crosses, many of them marking the graves of men who fell fighting Japan in World War II.

Supporting himself occasionally on the arm of an American general, the frail, slight emperor, 74, mounted the 100 marble steps to the Tomb of the Unknowns and began the fourth day of his two-week tour with another gesture of reconciliation and atonement for the past.

Auto Sales Off 15%

Detroit (AP) — The nation's auto makers Friday officially closed the books on their worst model-year since 1962, reporting a 4% drop in September car sales from modest year-earlier levels.

Total U.S. sales of 8.2 million cars were off 15% from the 1974-model year — which was weakened by fuel shortages — and down 32% from 1973, when the industry sold a record 11.8 million autos.

Domestic sales of 6.63 million cars in the just-completed model year — barely surpassing the depressed 1962 levels of 6.43 million — were off 19% from last year and 34% from the record 1973 levels of 10 million cars.

Combined domestic and foreign car sales in the United States during the 1975-model year, which traditionally ends in September, were the lowest since 1964, when sales were 8.1 million.

Reactivation Of Bases Said 'Out Of Question'

Ankara, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's foreign minister said Friday that reactivating U.S. bases was still "out of the question" despite the easing of the American arms embargo.

In Washington, State Department officials declined public comment, but specialists of the eastern Mediterranean area said privately that relaxation of the ban "deserved a more appreciative answer."

Ihsan Sapri Caglayanil said congressional approval of a $185 million arms shipment to Turkey was only the beginning "for eliminating the shadow which has fallen on Turkish-American relations."

Deputy Premier Turhan Feyzioglu said the U.S. initiative was "a step in the positive direction but it does not altogether eliminate the previous unjust decision."

The Greek government, in a brief official statement issued in Athens on Friday, said it "cannot applaud" the congressional decision, but maintained the action removed Turkey's contention that it could not make concessions over Cyprus because the embargo was a blow to national prestige.

Foot Fondler Strikes Again

San Antonio, Tex. (UPI) — The city's feared fondler attacked another female foot Friday.

A 34-year-old woman told police she was on her way to work when a man about 20 years old knocked her down, grabbed her leg, slipped off her shoe and planted a kiss on her foot.

Then the man ran away so fast she did not get an accurate description.

The incident happened six blocks from where two other female feet were molested several weeks ago.

Spaghetti House Siege Ends

London (UPI) — Police charged three gunmen and two accomplices with armed robbery Friday in the aftermath of a five-day "siege of the spaghetti house" that ended with the safe release of six weary, unshaven Italian hostages.

The ringleader, Nigerian Franklyn "Big Frank" Davis, 36, who shot himself in the stomach after a sudden pre-dawn surrender, underwent surgery at nearby St. George's Hospital for removal of a bullet from the abdomen. He remained there under police guard. His condition was described as "serious but not critical."

Ford Vetoes Child Nutrition Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford vetoed a $2.75 billion child nutrition bill Friday, threatening an end of the school breakfast program which feeds 1.8 million low-income pupils daily.

But Republican and Democratic leaders of the House Education and Labor Committee predicted the veto will be overridden by Congress. Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., said the override would carry "with many votes to spare."

In the Senate, Chairman George McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, said the veto "reveals once again the misplaced priorities of the Ford administration." He predicted the veto would be overridden "in less than a week."

Ford said the bill would provide subsidies for non-needy children and "is worse than the programs we now have."

The school lunch program will continue despite the veto because it is authorized on a permanent basis.

The breakfast program along with others providing nutritional meals to low-income mothers, infants and children, also will be continued at least temporarily. They now are being funded under stop-gap legislation that is effective until enactment of a pending Agriculture Department appropriation bill which includes funds for the programs.

When the agricultural appropriation is enacted, the temporary funding stops, cutting off money for the breakfast program and the others. Ford's veto of the nutrition authorization bill would block use of money from the appropriation measure for programs under the authorization bill.

Ford's veto also would kill Congress' plan to expand nutritional subsidies. The vetoed bill would have required schools to offer 20-cent lunches to students whose parents earn more than the poverty level of $5,010 but less than $9,770. Previously, schools were required to offer free lunches for children from families below the poverty level and could be reimbursed by the government if they offered the reduced price lunches.

The vetoed bill also would have made the breakfast program permanent, as the lunch program is now.

Ford suggested that Congress either extend the present school lunch program or act favorably on his proposal to provide aid for all children from families below the poverty level.

Exercising his 39th veto, the President said: "By extending aid to families not in need, this bill would add $1.2 billion to my budget proposals for the current year. I cannot accept such fiscal irresponsibility when we face the real danger that the budget deficit could reach $70 billion instead of the already high limit of $60 billion I set earlier this year," he said.

The President also said subsidies should not be expanded to families with incomes above the poverty level.

"I believe the way to help most American families is to take actions to hold down inflation and reduce their tax burdens," he said.

U.S. War Dead Receive Homage From Hirohito

Washington (UPI) — His bare head bowed, Emperor Hirohito of Japan paid silent homage to America's war dead in Arlington National Cemetery Friday as a bugle blew "Taps" and a chilly breeze ruffled a Japanese floral wreath on the Tomb of the Unknowns.

But for the mournful bugle call, there was not a sound among the sunlit hills of white crosses, many of them marking the graves of men who fell fighting Japan in World War II.

Supporting himself occasionally on the arm of an American general, the frail, slight emperor, 74, mounted the 100 marble steps to the Tomb of the Unknowns and began the fourth day of his two-week tour with another gesture of reconciliation and atonement for the past.

Jackson Withdraws Senate's Hoffa Body Sleuths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., agreed Friday under bipartisan fire from fellow senators to withdraw Senate investigators from the hunt in Michigan for the body of former Teamsters Union president James R. Hoffa.

Both Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Government Operations Committee, and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., its senior Republican, reportedly complained of the manner in which Jackson had detailed staff members of its Permanent Investigations Subcommittee to take part in the search.

They said they were never told about it until it was about to break in the press.

It was learned that one of the complaints was that information

the manner in which the search for Hoffa's body was conducted.

Percy and some other senators expressed these complaints:

— Neither Percy, the ranking Republican member, nor any other senator was told of the decision to cooperate with an alleged underworld informant who said he could find Hoffa's body.

— The investigators were sent to Michigan alone and unsupervised, where they made allegedly unprofessional and inflammatory statements to the press.

— Committee rules require that the ranking member be notified in advance of all major decisions.

The investigations subcommittee learned Aug. 28 of the existence of an informant who claimed that a so-called "top Mafia family" was concerned it was being unfairly blamed for Hoffa's disappearance and was willing to produce someone actually involved.

The informant reported that someone who helped bury Hoffa had access to a map purporting to show the gravesite.

Jackson gave the go-ahead order to investigators on Sept. 13, it was learned.

Percy reportedly was not informed of the search until Sept. 27.

Tipster Identified As 'Lying' Ex-Con

DETROIT (AP) — Harry Hall, an ex-convict written off in the past as a "liar," has been identified as the mysterious underworld informant who put Senate investigators on the trail of the reported burial site of ex-Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa.

Hall has denied he was the tipster, however.

He was identified as the informant in Friday editions of the Detroit News, and a law enforcement official who asked not to be identified said he also believed Hall was the man.

Hall got out of federal prison at the end of 1974 after serving six months on a charge of committing a $47,500 bank loan fraud.

He is a veteran underworld informer characterized in the past as a "liar" by former Asst. Atty.

County Court Again Arraigns W. Peery

For the second time in three months Wesley Peery has been arraigned Friday on murder and robbery charges in Lancaster County Court.

Peery, 51, accused of the June 6 shooting death of coin shop manager Marianne Mitzner, will face an Oct. 17 preliminary hearing on the first-degree murder and robbery charges.

Peery was originally charged with the same offenses and was bound over for trial in Lancaster County District Court after a July 17 preliminary hearing.

District Court Judge Samuel Van Pelt ruled that there was not sufficient evidence presented in the original county court preliminary hearing and ordered that the murder and robbery charges be dismissed unless the county attorney could present more information.

Additional information will be presented at the second preliminary hearing, County Atty. Ron Lahners has said.

Peery is still being held in the county jail. No bond has been set.

Only One Father Claims Rights Under New Laws

Only one Nebraska father has claimed paternity rights to a child born out of wedlock in the month since the state adoption laws began giving fathers additional custody protection, according to legal counsel for the State Welfare Department.

Under the new law, a father can protect his paternity rights and assure that a child is not adopted simply by signing a form supplied by the State Welfare Department.

But the form must be signed during pregnancy or before the child is 6 days old.

This new revision of the adoption laws means that agencies and attorneys handling adoptions must make certain that the father has not filed a paternity claim with the state before the child can be adopted.

Previously, any child born out of wedlock could be relinquished with the mother's consent, natural fathers had little legal recourse.

The current change of law applies only to those children born since Aug. 24, the date the law became effective, said Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum.

The law does give the mother legal right to contest the paternity challenge in the courts.

In addition to claiming paternity rights, the father must also acknowledge his liability for support of the child and for pregnancy-related medical expenses when he signs the paternity claim.

BRICKLIN SV1 . . . one of 3,000 produced before closing.

If the $10 million had not been sought for what Bricklin said was expansion, the Bricklin SV1 cars, now selling for about $10,000, would still be rolling off assembly lines on a profitable basis, Bricklin said.

Even if the matter is not resolved in Canada, Bricklin said, it's "not going to be the end of that car, that's for sure."

Bricklin said the car will be built in Detroit with other backers if this venture folds.

Bricklin, who refers to himself as an optimist, made an observation Friday on people who try a new idea in business, especially the auto making business.

"If he's successful, they call him an entrepreneur," he said. "If he's not, they call him a fraud."

Public Schools Gain 537 Pupils In 4 Weeks

Lincoln Public Schools enrollment increased 537 from the first-day registration count on Sept. 2, but the official total announced Friday is still down 453 or 1.58% from the final tally a year ago.

Enrollment as of Sept. 26 was 28,198, compared to 28,651 students on the fourth Friday in September 1974. Nebraska schools use attendance on that day as their official reporting totals to the state, to stand through the year for financial and other requirements.

Of this year's total, 14,485 are registered in elementary schools — 455 students less than last year.

The junior high schools total, 7,075, is down only eight. Senior high attendance is up by 10, to 6,638.

Late registrations slightly offset the district 1975-76 enrollment decline. Initial figures last month were 2.2% below that of the previous year.

Elementary schools gained the most students, 207, in the three-week late registration period this fall. There were 155 latecomers at junior highs and 175 at the senior highs.

The gain since opening day is significantly larger than the average increase over the past three years of 301, or the average

Mother Of Drowned Girl Files Claim For $250,000

The mother of an 11-year-old girl who drowned during a Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR) field trip is seeking $250,000 in damages from Lancaster County.

The claim filed by attorneys for Carol Hier, 283 Belmont Ave., lists 10 incidents of negligence relating to the June 3 drowning of Mrs. Hier's daughter, Carrie Lynn Zweerink, at Pawnee Lake.

The claim, a first step in a possible future civil suit, contends that LOMR was negligent in selecting a lake rather than a swimming pool, where life guards are provided and where it is possible to see the bottom.

The LOMR staff also failed to give the retarded girl, an epileptic, a life jacket in violation of "direct orders . . . that no child was to go into the water without a life jacket."

Other acts of negligence listed in the claim include:

- LOMR failed to provide competent supervision and did not provide one supervisor from the LOMR staff at the outing.
- LOMR did not establish a one-to-one relationship between adult and child "in violation of direct orders and instructions."
- LOMR failed to give the child her anti-convulsant medication at noon for three consecutive days, including the day of the drowning.

The claim also contends that County Attorney Ron Lahners and the LOMR staff are withholding information on specific negligent acts from the claimant.

Bricklin Is Guest Of UNL As Canadian Plant Closes

By GORDON WINTERS

Last week Malcolm Bricklin sold his Rolls-Royce.

Next he plans to sell his horses.

He's pretty sure they're going to foreclose on his house.

But what the hell. In his view, he told the crowd in the Nebraska Student Union, "there's really not that much difference between being rich and being poor. There really isn't."

Bricklin, the first man to put his own name on a new car since Henry J. Kaiser, spoke as part of the executive-in-residence program of the College of Business Administration of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Firm In Receivership

As he spoke, the Bricklin Canada, Ltd., plant in St. John, New Brunswick, was closed, employees were laid off and the company was in receivership.

At a press conference Friday afternoon, Bricklin said the situation was confusing. "It's crazy," he added.

Bricklin has succeeded in producing 3,000 Bricklin SV1 two-seat sports cars. The car's unusual features are a dent-proof acrylic body, a 10-mile-per-hour protection bumper, gull wing doors that are hinged at the top, and a steel roll cage that is built into the car's body.

The car's acrylic body, in which the color is part of the plastic and does not have to be painted, can set outside for 20 years and need only a half-hour buffing to make it look like new, Bricklin said.

The gull-wing doors, he said add "fun and pizzaz" although the company has had to do considerable warranty work because owners said they leaked. That problem has now been solved, Bricklin said.

"Besides ego and profit," Bricklin told reporters, he had no reason to build the car. For those two reasons, however, he put, he said $2 million of his own cash and $7 million or $8 million in other assets up to finance the manufacture of the car that would bear his name.

A college dropout, Bricklin got a toehold in the business world when he established a building supply company.

Now I Had It Here Just A Minute Ago

In the feverish race to beat the county budget deadline, Lancaster County commissioners and staff let one budget slip through their fingers.

The budget for the newly created Human Services Department never appeared in the document approved by the County Board in mid-August.

The two-headed department, both a county and city function, was allocated federal revenue sharing funds by both city and county governments.

Normally, the joint department would have an approved budget showing about $48,000 in expenditures for the year, plus the listed revenue from both governments.

Instead, the Human Services area shows only the anticipated county revenue of about $24,000. Despite cross checking during budget preparations, the actual budget and anticipated city revenue never made it into the final county budget document.

What this mix-up means in concrete terms is the Human Services Department has only half its expected $48,000 to actually spend during the year.

There is some question that even the county's share can be spent without an expenditure budget adopted by the County Board.

But the whole mess can be cleaned up very simply, according to Francis Walls of the state auditor's office. The county will merely include the budget changes on their regular agenda, hold a public hearing and put the city's revenue and the budget expenditures into the total county budget document.

The slip-up, undetected for almost two months, led County Administrator Wayne Hart to say, "I think we're going to have to refine our checking process next year."

Washington (UPI) — The Navy reduced charges against the commander who hired exotic dancer Cat Futch to perform topless aboard the nuclear submarine Finback.

The decision made Cmdr. Connelly D. Stevenson eligible for command again, and confined punishment to a disciplinary letter.

Stevenson had been relieved as commander of the sub and given a desk job in Norfolk, Va., pending the investigation.

He's pretty sure they're going to foreclose on his house.

Bricklin, the first man to put his own name on a new car since Henry J. Kaiser, spoke as part of the executive-in-residence program of the College of Business Administration of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Firm In Receivership

As he spoke, the Bricklin Canada, Ltd., plant in St. John, New Brunswick, was closed, employees were laid off and the company was in receivership.

At a press conference Friday afternoon, Bricklin said the situation was confusing. "It's crazy," he added.

Bricklin has succeeded in producing 3,000 Bricklin SV1 two-seat sports cars. The car's

A college dropout, Bricklin got a toehold in the business world when he established a building supply company.

Handyman Store Chain

He then developed the Han-dyman Stores, seven-day-a-week neighborhood drive-in hardware stores, in which he later sold his interest.

He quickly moved on, became involved with Fuji Heavy Industries as a motor scooter distributor, then established Subaru of America, in 1968 for the importation of the Japanese auto.

In 1971 he sold control of the firm, although he remains one of its largest single stockholders. Since then he has been trying to get production of his car off the ground.

He found a way to begin in Canada. The province of New Brunswick put up $20 million. The Canadian government put up $3 million and banks put up another $6 million or $7 million.

This together with his own assets, built a plant in New Brunswick, designed the car, hired the work force and lined up more than 300 U.S. dealers. Cars started rolling off the assembly line.

Until last week.

Expansion Funds Sought

Bricklin says the company went into receivership because of a breakdown in communication. He said the company sought another $10 million "for expansion." He said banks and provincial government greed to provide it, but each thought the other should be the source.

While this situation was being worked out, Bricklin said, the provincial government asked that the company be placed in receivership to "hold everything in abeyance."

If the $10 million had not been sought for what Bricklin said was expansion, the Bricklin SV1 cars, now selling for about $10,000, would still be rolling off assembly lines on a profitable basis, Bricklin said.

There is some question that even the county's share can be spent without an expenditure budget adopted by the County Board.

But the whole mess can be cleaned up very simply, according to Francis Walls of the state auditor's office. The county will merely include the budget changes on their regular agenda, hold a public hearing and put the city's revenue and the budget expenditures into the total county budget document.

The slip-up, undetected for almost two months, led County Administrator Wayne Hart to say, "I think we're going to have to refine our checking process next year."

Hoppe Is Head Of Lumbermen

The president of a Lincoln lumber company has been elected president of the Mid-America Lumberman's Association.

John L. Hoppe, president of the John L. Hoppe Lumber Co., has assumed the official duties of the post he was named to late last month during the annual meeting of the association's board of directors in Kansas City.

The Mid-America Lumbermen's Association is a trade association of about 1,300 retail lumber and building materials dealers in Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Topless Dancer Aboard Sub Not Serious Charge

Washington (UPI) — The Navy reduced charges against the commander who hired exotic dancer Cat Futch to perform topless aboard the nuclear submarine Finback.

The decision made Cmdr. Connelly D. Stevenson eligible for command again, and confined punishment to a disciplinary letter.

Stevenson had been relieved as commander of the sub and given a desk job in Norfolk, Va., pending the investigation.

Public Schools Gain 537 Pupils In 4 Weeks

Lincoln Public Schools enrollment increased 537 from the first-day registration count on Sept. 2, but the official total announced Friday is still down 453 or 1.58% from the final tally a year ago.

Enrollment as of Sept. 26 was 28,198, compared to 28,651 students on the fourth Friday in September 1974. Nebraska schools use attendance on that day as their official reporting totals to the state, to stand through the year for financial and other requirements.

Of this year's total, 14,485 are registered in elementary schools — 455 students less than last year. The junior high schools total, 7,075, is down only eight. Senior high attendance is up by 10, to 6,638.

— Late registrations slightly offset the district 1975-76 enrollment decline. Initial figures last month were 2.2% below that of the previous year.

Elementary schools gained the most students, 207, in the three-week late registration period this fall. There were 155 latecomers at junior highs and 175 at the senior highs.

The gain since opening day is significantly larger than the average increase over the past three years of 301, or the average five-year gain of 367, Edwin E. Wahl, district planning assistant, said.

The number of special education students is down, compared to last year. Elementary schools reported 225 (263 last year); junior highs 185 (215), and senior highs 88 (102).

The Head Start program at Elliott School is serving 116 children, who are included in the grand total.

Meadow Lane School claims the largest elementary enrollment this fall, with 842 students. Rousseau is next, with 732 students, followed by Calvert (678), Arnold (652), Prescott (637) and Morley (632).

Six elementary schools —

Beattie, Belmont, Huntington, Pyrtle, Randolph and Zeman — serve between 500 and 600 children. Smallest enrollments are at Dawes (174) and Norwood Park (192). Goodrich Junior High also runs programs for 156 sixth-graders.

Among the junior high schools, Irving has the largest enrollment, 1,066. Mickle served 904, Culler 830, Lefler 802, Pound 765, Lincoln East 673, Goodrich 610, Dawes 533, Everett 464, Whittier 346, and Lincoln Learning Center 10.

In the high schools, Lincoln Southeast leads with 1,694, followed by Northeast, 1,684; Lincoln High, 1,661; East, 1,438, and 161 in the Learning Center.

Mother Of Drowned Girl Files Claim For $250,000

The mother of an 11-year-old girl who drowned during a Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR) field trip is seeking $250,000 in damages from Lancaster County.

The claim filed by attorneys for Carol Hier, 283 Belmont Ave., lists 10 incidents of negligence relating to the June 3 drowning of Mrs. Hier's daughter, Carrie Lynn Zweerink, at Pawnee Lake.

The claim, a first step in a possible future civil suit, contends that LOMR was negligent in selecting a lake rather than a swimming pool, where life guards are provided and where it is possible to see the bottom.

The LOMR staff also failed to give the retarded girl, an epileptic, a life jacket in violation of "direct orders . . . that no child was to go into the water without a life jacket."

Other acts of negligence listed in the claim include:

— LOMR failed to provide competent supervision and did not provide one supervisor from the LOMR staff at the outing.

— LOMR did not establish a one-to-one relationship between adult and child "in violation of direct orders and instructions."

— LOMR failed to give the child her anti-convulsant medication at noon for three consecutive days, including the day of the drowning.

The claim also contends that County Attorney Ron Lahners and the LOMR staff are withholding information on specific negligent acts from the claimant.

It's Only A Law

The Ford administration sure made a grandstand play to the motorcyclist voting bloc this week. Add states righters to the audience, too.

In Omaha Wednesday, Transportation Secretary William Coleman declared that the administration has no plans to implement a provision in federal law that would cut off federal highway funds to a state which doesn't have a motorcycle helmet safety law.

"The proposal to cut off funds for states that don't have a motorcycle helmet law was never a part of administration policy. It was put into the law by the Democratic-controlled Congress," Coleman told an audience attending a session of the White House Conference on Economic and Domestic Affairs. "I don't think the law makes much sense and I am most reluctant to enforce it. I haven't implemented that portion of the law and I won't cut off funds unless I should be sued. I won't allow the Department of Transportation to be sued for noncompliance of the law. I hope it doesn't come to that during my term in office," Coleman said.

There are many provisions of federal law which don't make much sense. We've never understood why the federal government would want, for example, to withhold safety funds from a good safety program only because one or another minor part of a federal model has not been enacted by a state. That is cutting off the nose to spite the face, so to speak. It certainly defeats the desired safety goal.

We also believe that government steps too far over the line in controlling the day-to-day living of people. Motorcycle helmet legislation intrudes into the area, we think, of personal responsibility. But it is the law, apparently. In Nebraska, a helmet statute is on the books but is not being enforced pending a court ruling. Still, the federal provision that funds are to be withheld if a state does not comply with federal demands, even if it does not make much sense, is still the law — passed by Congress and whether Congress is controlled by Democrats or not does not make any difference.

For the sake of buttering up to potential voters, a member of the Ford administration is, in a manner of speaking, encouraging anarchy. What other laws passed by a Democratic Congress will a Republican administration refuse to enforce unless sued to do so? That is opening up some pretty dangerous territory, even if it makes for spirited politics.

Besides, there is no sense in inspiring contempt for the law over such a petty issue.

Hypocritical Protest

The old fascist took the stiff-arm salute from millions of his supporters in Madrid this week as Spain, feeling persecuted, recoiled from the searing heat of worldwide protest of its execution of several terrorists.

El Caudillo is not our idea of a leader for the 20th Century, or any time for that matter, and the Franco regime is not our idea of enlightened government. The sooner he goes, the better for Spain.

But what a bunch of hypocrisy Franco's detractors around the world are spouting

Francisco Franco's regime has recently put to death, and promises the same treatment to others, several people who are styled as revolutionaries. Perhaps some of them are. The Basque separatists, for example, have the sympathy and support of millions and millions of people the world over in their centuries-old struggle for self-determination. But the people Franco executed can also be styled as cop-killing thugs, which they also are. While the mass demonstration in support of Franco was in progress this week, terrorists killed three more policemen.

These tactics are condoned by such leaders as the prime minister of Sweden, Olaf the Absurd, who has made a public career of protesting United States foreign policy and rightest repression while treating communist atrocities with benign neglect.

That is the pattern followed by loud-mouths the world over: Repression by the right is an unspeakable abomination; by the left the same torture and execution is tolerated as something in service of a loftier goal.

Anybody with reasonably healthy moral vision can see that there is no difference and only a hypocrite will get excited about the one and not the other.

As William Safire said in a recent column, let's argue capital punishment if we will, but not a nation's right to exercise its own laws.

And let's not make the moral mistake of letting political persuasion excuse murderous conduct.

Press Opinion Panel

WASHINGTON — There were some strange goings-on in a Capitol Hill hearing room the other day. Four members of the press sat around a table and advised members of Congress on foreign policy and how to play the power game with Henry Kissinger and friends.

The two-hour session was harmless and maybe even pointless. But it raised some questions about how much cozzness there should be between the folks of the press and the folks of the government. There was grist there for those who see the press and the government as part and parcel of the same elitist establishment.

The occasion was a "special round-table panel" (one of the journalists had said he wouldn't participate if it was to be a congressional hearing) called by Rep. Lester Wolff (D-N.Y.). He is chairman of the Future Foreign Policy Subcommittee of the House Committee on International Relations.

The press was represented by a columnist, Jack Anderson; a TV public affairs show host, Martin Agronsky; a news magazine bureau chief, Hugh Sides of Time; and a newspaper publisher, William Attwood of the Long Island paper, Newsday. Wolff presided and several of his colleagues participated.

Wolff's announced purpose was to discuss the reporting of foreign policy. He had sketched out some specific topics, such as where journalists find foreign policy is made (apparently that puzzles Congress, too), how they decide what to write about and how they form their views.

Problems of the press came up briefly when the panelists were asked whether news people had much trouble with official attempts to restrain them. Three said such incidents were comparatively rare. Agronsky had to reach back to World War II for his example. Anderson reported that prior to the Ford administration he had been subjected to harassment and worse by numerous government agencies and the White House. But most of the time was spent on what the journalists thought about United States foreign policy and their advice on how Congress can have more of an impact on it.

They tried to help the congressmen with a definition of detente. Attwood's effort — "tacit agreement that we will not get into hostilities because that would be too destructive to us both" — seemed the most thoughtful. Anderson's — "avoiding suicide" — was the most succinct.

But the most vigorous comment from the panel concerned the need for Congress to play a meaningful role in foreign policy.

When the congressmen complained that the secrecy practiced by the executive branch made things difficult, the journalists advised them to get tough.

And if information is not forthcoming, Congress should, as Agronsky put it, "use the power of the purse" — that is withhold appropriations until satisfied about the uses to which the money is to be put.

There may even be a certain justice in permitting congressmen, whose brains are picked daily by newsmen, to turn the tables for a few hours.

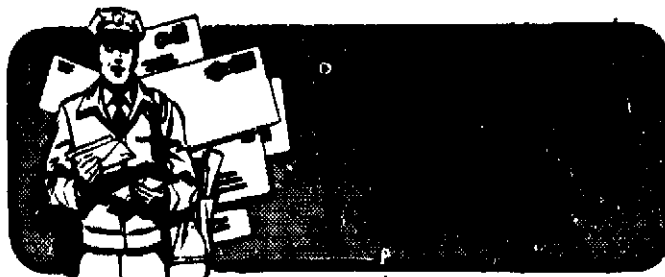

But still, there was something askew about the whole performance. One had the feeling that a valuable barrier between government and media was being breached — that perhaps it would be better if journalists stuck to the business of reporting and interpreting the news for their only clients, the public.

It is one thing for a newsperson to tell his audience that Congress should assert a more aggressive role in foreign affairs and how that could be done. It is quite another for him to go to Capitol Hill and tell congressmen what they should do and how they should do it.

There is not much danger that a precedent has been set. Although Wolff assured the journalists that they had "contributed greatly to our storehouse of knowledge," even in clarity the session must be said to have been only of minimal value. The journalists seemed slightly bemused as they left the hearing room and not eager for an encore.

The experiment didn't go down the drain of history, however. An NBC television crew was there to record it for possible use in a foreign policy documentary to be broadcast in January.

Prejudice Or Politics

The recent killing of a black Lincolnite was indeed a tragedy and needless sacrifice.

If decency is expected in any phase of civil government or law-enforcement agency, decent people must be hired and supported in office, and decent civilians protected from threats and smear tactics.

A great number of recent murders have stemmed from people working inside law-supported factions, including Sara Jane Moore, who took a shot at President Ford, no less.

Is this really prejudice or politics, putting mistreated minorities in the limelight?

What A Way To Run A Bus!

No wonder the Lincoln Transportation System has trouble getting riders!

While LTS spends its time complaining about financial troubles, the company makes it anything but easy for Lincolnites to ride the bus.

I believed Mayor Helen Boosalis, who rides LTS daily and had said it's a good deal. I decided to ride too, but here's what I ran up against one Saturday on my first attempt:

I called the company office, as LTS suggests, for information. A tape-recorded voice told me to call back on Monday. Not discouraged, I asked a friend where LTS schedules were available. She said she thought I could find them in select downtown stores. Inconvenient, I thought, but searched through a few and finally found the LTS display in Miller & Paine.

First I had to translate — from an almost unreadable map — which LTS area my home lay in. It was roughly bordered by three areas, but sort of in one. Then I had to figure out which three LTS flyers to select from the display (that was the easiest part of the process).

While the flyers showed the routes fairly clearly, there was — defying any LTS claim to common sense — no indication of where buses stop along any of the routes. If I hiked the seven, five or four blocks from home to any of the three routes, I would have no assurance I'd be picked up there. Am I required, after having to get the route schedule myself in the first place, to make a search for LTS signs along the route, by foot?

The flyers also listed the schedule for each route. Summoning all my abilities as a college graduate, I nevertheless couldn't decipher what time any bus stopped at any given point, except at 10th and O. While my eyesight is excellent, what about an elderly person, with no other means of transportation, who is forced to figure out times from what looks like a racing form?

The mini-line flyer says buses travel the downtown route continuously, and stop at designated corners about every eight minutes but possibly "more frequently or slightly less frequently." How can anyone depend on this kind of uncertainty? Furthermore, what's not indicated is what time mini-buses start and stop running, and what corners are designated. Is this common sense, LTS?

Moreover, LTS must figure nobody works beyond 6 p.m. or doesn't need early evening bus transportation. Even if I could figure out how to ride the bus to work in the morning, how would I get home?

Until you start serving the public by running buses when and where people need to use them, you deserve your money troubles, LTS. And you don't deserve a city subsidy. Now that I've had to go to all this trouble to learn what's still perfectly unclear, I'll continue to drive to work, alone, in my car.

EX-POTENTIAL RIDER

Fear Guards The Protest

The 1972 Unicameral reversed a long-standing dominance of the county court system by elected laymen when they handed the last of our courts over to the lawyers. Compounding the error in judgment, they placed the elected district judges, all lawyers, under the Missouri Plan which practically guarantees them life tenure.

What, if any, questions can be raised against the somewhat arbitrary and capricious decisions of lawyer county judges, supported as they generally are by a subservient local bar and, as is generally the case, by a friendly county attorney?

Such a system literally screams for abuse of power and privilege. County judges have been dismissing cases in large numbers after a six-months wait and with a companion county attorney looking out the window, often without any required explanation.

This is equal justice? This coupled with plea bargaining, is making a mockery of law and order and posing impossible obstacles to criminal law-enforcement in Nebraska.

FEAR is keeping the average layman from speaking out in protest. This though the lower court and its decisions in criminal matters plays such a vital role in curbing or correcting juvenile crime.

DEWEY NEMETZ

Let 'Em Eat Crow

It may be a bit early to start working on the Legislature, but there are a couple of things I think should be taken care of during the next session.

It seems the sportsmen — so-called — got a dove bill passed. If these people want real sportsmanship in hunting, may I suggest to the senators that wherever the word "dove" or "incurring dove" appears in the dove bill, the words "hunting bird" or "crow" be substituted. The hunting bird has about as much meat on it, and just think of the additional food on a crow. They're both hard to shoot.

The second matter pertains to radio stations, and the type of "music" they play from morning until close-down time. A bill should be passed, with the emergency clause attached, that a radio station could not replay the same record more than twice a day and not more than three days of the week. The Legislature can screw the words around enough to get the idea across. It seems that if you can find someone who can pound on a tub, another to pick on a guitar and another who can yell at the top of his lungs, you have a record to make — it'll be a hit.

It would seem that the radio stations could come up with some of the softer, more melodic music of yesterday. Summer music, please take note.

Indira Turns To Charm

NEW YORK — The world's toughest woman dictator and longtime hostile critic of the United States, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, is about to make a new pitch for some of the American taxpayers' money.

Having suppressed democracy in India and put her political opponents either in prison or under house detention, the authoritarian-minded daughter of the late Jawaharlal Nehru is now about to send her foreign minister, Y. B. Chavan, to Washington to seek, among other things, the resumption of American economic assistance. This was canceled in 1971 after India invaded and dismembered Pakistan.

Mr. Chavan is scheduled to visit Washington Oct. 6-7 to set up an Indian-American committee to formulate plans for aid to India, including economic, scientific and educational.

Having accused the United States last year of "aggressive intentions" against India, Mrs. Gandhi is now changing her tune. For the first time in several years, she turned up recently at a U.S. Embassy dinner in New Delhi. The dinner was in honor of a visiting congressman, which just might possibly have been the reason she accepted the invitation to attend.

She has also told American visitors she would welcome a visit to India by President Ford.

The elected members of the Indian Parliament — who, innocent of any crime, are under detention without legal redress because they opposed her suppression of democracy in what had been one of the most open societies — would certainly not welcome an American presidential visit that would in effect be seen as endorsement of her dictatorship.

The dogmatic dame, who assumed authoritarian power last June after an Allahabad court found her guilty of political corruption, is apparently putting her antipathy towards America on the back-burner because she needs American economic help to overcome the failure of her ruling Congress Party to even approach a solution of the country's immense economic and social problems. These are attributed in no small part to widespread corruption and a bureaucratic inefficiency which has tended to perpetuate a system bringing fortunes to a few while the great mass of the poverty-stricken people remains in misery.

While there may be some justification on political grounds (forestalling the spread of communism) and also on humanitarian grounds for helping the Indian people, the granting of new American aid should have some strings attached to it.

The poor nations howl in protest when there is talk about setting conditions for American aid, especially when there is any political connotation to the conditions such as telling the starving Indian that the flour comes from the American taxpayer.

When an American goes to the bank to get a loan to buy a car or pay bills, the bank sets conditions and, while they may not be political in nature, if the individual started denouncing the bank and otherwise harming its interests, he would undoubtedly stand little chance of getting a new loan, much less a free grant — which is what India and a lot of the other poor nations have received from the United States.

Since the end of World War II, American taxpayers' aid to India has totalled more than $10 billion, the largest amount given any foreign country. Yet under the leadership of Mrs. Gandhi and her late father, the Indian government persistently pursued an anti-American policy, displaying an arrogant, moralizing attitude against the United States in the United Nations, where it voted regularly with opponents of American policy.

When Daniel P. Moynihan, now U.S. ambassador to the U.N., was America's envoy in India, he informed the State Department that Mrs. Gandhi considered the United States "a profoundly selfish and cynical counter-revolutionary power." Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is said to have once described her as cold-blooded and tough.

If Congress is going to be asked to approve large-scale economic assistance to India, it should insist the Indian people be told where the aid is coming from. The Indian government should also give a commitment that it will curb its anti-American posture in the U.N. and elsewhere.

From Canadian Side

WASHINGTON — As far as many Canadians are concerned, the United States' 200th anniversary is no cause for celebration. Instead, the bicentennial is stirring memories of American invasions of and threats to annex Canadian territory. The border between the United States and Canada is now described as the most peaceful one of its length in the world, but it was not always so.

Even before the Declaration of Independence, American colonists attempted to wrest Canada from British control. They ascribed to themselves the highest of motives. John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress, declared that American arms would "open a Way for Blessings of Liberty, and the Happiness of well-ordered Government to visit that extensive Dominion."

After some hesitation, the Congress authorized an invasion of Canada if it were found to be practicable. A force headed by Gen. Richard Montgomery headed north from Ft. Ticonderoga, N.Y., and occupied Montreal on Nov. 13, 1775. A second expedition under the command of Col. Benedict Arnold, was less fortunate. Many men were lost during the trek through Maine wilderness; only 700 made it all the way to Quebec. That city held out against the American siege, and the surviving invaders were obliged to retreat across the border.

Anti-American feeling in Canada grew during the ensuing Revolutionary War years. It is estimated that 100,000 Americans loyal to the British Crown were exiled by the Revolution. Around 40,000 of them ended up in Canada, chiefly in the sparsely settled Maritime Provinces. Others formed the first English-speaking population in what became the Province of Ontario.

Many descendants of these exiles belong to the United Empire Loyalist Association, the oldest patriotic organization in Canada. To them as to their ancestors, the American Revolution was a mistake. "George Washington and his crowd were the traitors, not the loyalists, our ancestors who were the founding fathers of Canada," said Charlotte Winslow of Woodstock, New Brunswick.

Eric Tsui, secretary of the United Empire Loyalists of St. John, New Brunswick, introduced a resolution last June that was adopted unanimously by his fellow members. "The revolution," he said, "was that we wear black armbands at all future meetings during the American bicentennial years 1975 and 1976."

The revolution is only one of several old grievances. American forces again invaded Canada during the War of 1812. Border disputes flared from time to time, most notably over the Oregon Territory in the mid-1840s. Expansionists in this country demanded that the boundary be drawn at 54° 40' north latitude; hence the slogan "Fifty-Four Forty or Fight." But President Polk compromised with the British on the 49th parallel.

Meanwhile, there was occasional talk on both sides of the border of American annexation of Canada, either through armed force or because of economic necessity on Canada's part. Canadian fears of American territorial expansionism did not begin to subside until after World War I, and today they have all but disappeared. Still, the tensions of the past have left their imprint. In Canada, July 4, 1975, promises to be a mid-summer day much like any other.

"The proposal to cut off funds for states that don't have a motorcycle helmet law was never a part of administration policy. It was put into the law by the Democratic-controlled Congress," Coleman told an audience attending a session of the White House Conference on Economic and Domestic Affairs. "I don't think the law makes much sense and I am most reluctant to enforce it. I haven't implemented that portion of the law and I won't cut off funds unless I should be sued. I won't allow the Department of Transportation to be sued for noncompliance of the law. I hope it doesn't come to that during my term in office," Coleman said.

There are many provisions of federal law which don't make much sense. We've never understood why the federal government would want, for example, to withhold safety funds from a good safety program only because one or another minor part of a federal model has not been enacted by a state. That is cutting off the nose to spite the face, so to speak. It certainly defeats the desired safety goal.

We also believe that government steps too far over the line in controlling the day-to-day living of people. Motorcycle helmet legislation intrudes into the area, we think, of personal responsibility. But it is the law, apparently. In Nebraska, a helmet statute is on the books but is not being enforced pending a court ruling. Still, the federal provision that funds are to be withheld if a state does not comply with federal demands, even if it does not make much sense, is still the law — passed by Congress and whether Congress is controlled by Democrats or not does not make any difference.

For the sake of buttering up to potential voters, a member of the Ford administration is, in a manner of speaking, encouraging anarchy. What other laws passed by a Democratic Congress will a Republican administration refuse to enforce unless sued to do so? That is opening up some pretty dangerous territory, even if it makes for spirited politics.

Besides, there is no sense in inspiring contempt for the law over such a petty issue.

Hypocritical Protest

The old fascist took the stiff-arm salute from millions of his supporters in Madrid this week as Spain, feeling persecuted, recoiled from the searing heat of worldwide protest of its execution of several terrorists.

El Caudillo is not our idea of a leader for the 20th Century, or any time for that matter, and the Franco regime is not our idea of enlightened government. The sooner he goes, the better for Spain.

But what a bunch of hypocrisy Franco's detractors around the world are spouting.

Francisco Franco's regime has recently put to death, and promises the same treatment to others, several people who are styled as revolutionaries. Perhaps some of them are. The Basque separatists, for example, have the sympathy and support of millions and millions of people the world over in their centuries-old struggle for self-determination. But the people Franco executed can also be styled as cop-killing thugs, which they also are. While the mass demonstration in support of Franco was in progress this week, terrorists killed three more policemen.

These tactics are condoned by such leaders as the prime minister of Sweden, Olaf the Absurd, who has made a public career of protesting United States foreign policy and rightest repression while treating communist atrocities with benign neglect.

That is the pattern followed by loudmouths the world over: Repression by the right is an unspeakable abomination; by the left the same torture and execution is tolerated as something in service of a loftier goal.

Anybody with reasonably healthy moral vision can see that there is no difference and only a hypocrite will get excited about the one and not the other.

As William Safire said in a recent column, let's argue capital punishment if we will, but not a nation's right to exercise its own laws.

And let's not make the moral mistake of letting political persuasion excuse murderous conduct.

Press Opinion Panel

WASHINGTON — There were some strange goings-on in a Capitol Hill hearing room the other day. Four members of the press sat around a table and advised members of Congress on foreign policy and how to play the power game with Henry Kissinger and friends.

The two-hour session was harmless and maybe even pointless. But it raised some questions about how much coziness there should be between the folks of the press and the folks of the government. There was grist there for those who see the press and the government as part and parcel of the same elitist establishment.

The occasion was a "special round-table panel" (one of the journalists had said he wouldn't participate if it was to be a congressional hearing) called by Rep. Lester Wolff (D-N.Y.). He is chairman of the Future Foreign Policy Subcommittee of the House Committee on International Relations.

The press was represented by a columnist, Jack Anderson; a TV public affairs show host, Martin Agronsky; a news magazine bureau chief, Hugh Sidey of Time; and a newspaper publisher, William Attwood of the Long Island paper, Newsday. Wolff presided and several of his colleagues participated.

Wolff's announced purpose was to discuss the reporting of foreign policy. He had sketched out some specific topics, such as where journalists find foreign policy is made (apparently that puzzles Congress, too), how they decide what to write about and how they form their views.

Problems of the press came up briefly when the panelists were asked whether news people had much trouble with official attempts to restrain them. Three said such incidents were comparatively rare; Agronsky had to reach back to World War II for his example. Anderson reported that prior to the Ford administration he had been subjected to harassment and worse by numerous government agencies and the White House. But most of the time was spent on what the journalists thought about United States foreign policy and their advice on how Congress can have more of an impact on it.

They tried to help the congressmen with a definition of detente. Attwood's effort — "tacit agreement that we will not get into hostilities because that would be too destructive to us both" — seemed the most thoughtful. Anderson's — "avoiding suicide" — was the most succinct.

But the most vigorous comment from the panel concerned the need for Congress to play a meaningful role in foreign policy.

When the congressmen complained that the secrecy practiced by the executive branch made things difficult, the journalists advised them to get tough.

And if information is not forthcoming, Congress should, as Agronsky put it, "use the power of the purse" — that is withhold appropriations until satisfied about the uses to which the money is to be put.

There may even be a certain justice in permitting congressmen, whose brains are picked daily by newsmen, to turn the tables for a few hours.

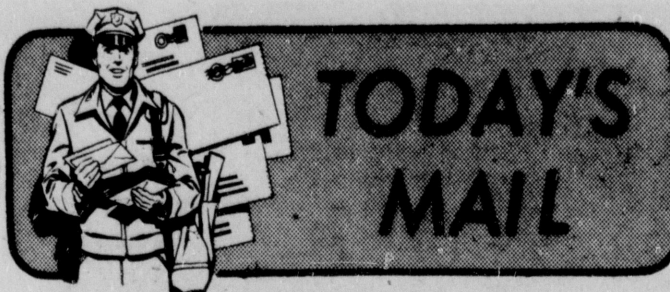

But still, there was something askew about the whole performance. One had the feeling that a valuable barrier between government and media was being breached — that perhaps it would be better if journalists stuck to the business of reporting and interpreting the news for their only clients, the public.

It is one thing for a newsmen to tell his audience that Congress should assert a more aggressive role in foreign affairs and how that could be done. It is quite another for him to go to Capitol Hill and tell congressmen what they should do and how they should do it.

There is not much danger that a precedent has been set. Although Wolff assured the journalists that they had "contributed greatly to our storehouse of knowledge," even in charity the session must be said to have been only of minimal value. The journalists seemed slightly bemused as they left the hearing room and not eager for an encore.

The experiment didn't go down the drain of history, however. An NBC television crew was there to record it for possible use in a foreign policy documentary to be broadcast in January.

Prejudice Or Politics

The recent killing of a black Lincolnite was indeed a tragedy and needless sacrifice.

If decency is expected in any phase of civil government or law-enforcement agency, decent people must be hired and supported in office, and decent civilians protected from threats and smear tactics.

A great number of recent murders have stemmed from people working inside law-supported factions, including Sara Jane Moore, who took a shot at President Ford, no less.

Is this really prejudice or politics, putting mistreated minorities in the limelight?

What A Way To Run A Bus!

No wonder the Lincoln Transportation System has trouble getting riders!

While LTS spends its time complaining about financial troubles, the company makes it anything but easy for Lincolnites to ride the bus.

I believed Mayor Helen Boosalis, who rides LTS daily and had said it's a good deal. I decided to ride too, but here's what I ran up against one Saturday on my first attempt:

I called the company office, as LTS suggests, for information. A tape-recorded voice told me to call back on Monday. Not discouraged, I asked a friend where LTS schedules were available. She said she thought I could find them in select downtown stores. Inconvenient, I thought, but searched through a few and finally found the LTS display in Miller & Paine.

First I had to translate — from an almost unreadable map — which LTS area my home lay in. It was roughly bordered by three areas, but sort of in one. Then I had to figure out which three LTS flyers to select from the display (that was the easiest part of the process).

While the flyers showed the routes fairly clearly, there was — defying any LTS claim to common sense — no indication of where buses stop along any of the routes. If I hiked the seven, five or four blocks from home to any of the three routes, I would have no assurance I'd be picked up there. Am I required, after having to get the route schedule myself in the first place, to make a search for LTS signs along the route, by foot?

The flyers also listed the schedule for each route. Summoning all my abilities as a college graduate, I nevertheless couldn't decipher what time any bus stopped at any given point, except at 10th and O. While my eyesight is excellent, what about an elderly person, with no other means of transportation, who is forced to figure out times from what looks like a racing form?

The mini-line flyer says buses travel the downtown route continuously, and stop at designated corners about every eight minutes but possibly "more frequently or slightly less frequently." How can anyone depend on this kind of uncertainty? Furthermore, what's not indicated is what time mini-buses start and stop running, and what corners are designated. Is this common sense, LTS?

Moreover, LTS must figure nobody works beyond 6 p.m. or doesn't need early evening bus transportation. Even if I could figure out how to ride the bus to work in the morning, how would I get home?

Until you start serving the public by running buses when and where people need to use them, you deserve your money troubles, LTS. And you don't deserve a city subsidy. Now that I've had to go to all this trouble to learn what's still perfectly unclear, I'll continue to drive to work, alone, in my car.

Fear Guards The Protest

The 1972 Unicameral reversed a long-standing dominance of the county court system by elected laymen when they handed the last of our courts over to the lawyers. Compounding the error in judgment, they placed the elected district judges, all lawyers, under the Missouri Plan which practically guarantees them life tenure.

What, if any, questions can be raised against the somewhat arbitrary and capricious decisions of lawyer county judges, supported as they generally are by a subservient local bar and, as is generally the case, by a friendly county attorney?

Such a system literally screams for abuse of power and privilege. County judges have been dismissing cases in large numbers after a six-months wait and with a companion county attorney looking out the window, often without any required explanation.

This is equal justice? This coupled with plea bargaining, is making a mockery of law and order and posing impossible obstacles to criminal law-enforcement in Nebraska.

FEAR is keeping the average layman from speaking out in protest. This though the lower court and its decisions in criminal matters plays such a vital role in curbing or correcting juvenile crime.

Let 'Em Eat Crow

It may be a bit early to start working on the Legislature, but there are a couple of things I think should be taken care of during the next session.

It seems the sportsmen — so-called — got a dove bill passed. If these people want real sportsmanship in hunting, may I suggest to the senators that wherever the word "dove" or "mourning dove" appears in the dove bill, the words "humming bird" or "crow" be substituted. The humming bird has about as much meat on it, and just think of the additional food on a crow. They're both hard to shoot.

The second matter pertains to radio stations, and the type of "music" they play from morning until close-down time. A bill should be passed, with the emergency clause attached, that a radio station could not replay the same record more than twice a day and nor more than three days of the week. The Legislature can screw the words around enough to get the idea across. It seems that if you can find someone who can pound on a tub, another to pick on a guitar and another who can yell at the top of his lungs, you have a record to make — it'll be a hit.

It would seem that the radio stations could come up with some of the softer, more melodious music of yesteryear. Senator Marsh, please take note.

Indira Turns To Charm

NEW YORK — The world's toughest woman dictator and longtime hostile critic of the United States, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, is about to make a new pitch for some of the American taxpayers' money.

Having suppressed democracy in India and put her political opponents either in prison or under house detention, the authoritarian-minded daughter of the late Jawaharlal Nehru is now about to send her foreign minister, Y. B. Chavan, to Washington to seek, among other things, the resumption of American economic assistance. This was canceled in 1971 after India invaded and dismembered Pakistan.

Mr. Chavan is scheduled to visit Washington Oct. 6-7 to set up an Indian-American committee to formulate plans for aid to India, including economic, scientific and educational.

Having accused the United States last year of "aggressive intentions" against India, Mrs. Gandhi is now changing her tune. For the first time in several years, she turned up recently at a U.S. Embassy dinner in New Delhi. The dinner was in honor of a visiting congressman, which just might possibly have been the reason she accepted the invitation to attend.

She has also told American visitors she would welcome a visit to India by President Ford.

The elected members of the Indian Parliament — who, innocent of any crime, are under detention without legal redress because they opposed her suppression of democracy in what had been one of the most open societies — would certainly not welcome an American presidential visit that would in effect be seen as endorsement of her dictatorship.

The dogmatic dame, who assumed authoritarian power last June after an Allahabad court found her guilty of political corruption, is apparently putting her antipathy towards America on the back-burner because she needs American economic help to overcome the failure of her ruling Congress Party to even approach a solution of the country's immense economic and social problems. These are attributed in no small part to widespread corruption and a bureaucratic inefficiency which has tended to perpetuate a system bringing fortunes to a few while the great mass of the poverty-stricken people remains in misery.

While there may be some justification on political grounds (forestalling the spread of communism) and also on humanitarian grounds for helping the Indian people, the granting of new American aid should have some strings attached to it.

The poor nations howl in protest when there is talk about setting conditions for American aid, especially when there is any political connotation to the conditions such as telling the starving Indian that the flour comes from the American taxpayer.

When an American goes to the bank to get a loan to buy a car or pay bills, the bank sets conditions and, while they may not be political in nature, if the individual started denouncing the bank and otherwise harming its interests, he would undoubtedly stand little chance of getting a new loan, much less a free grant — which is what India and a lot of the other poor nations have received from the United States.

Since the end of World War II, American taxpayers' aid to India has totalled more than $10 billion, the largest amount given any foreign country. Yet under the leadership of Mrs. Gandhi and her late father, the Indian government persistently pursued an anti-American policy, displaying an arrogant, moralizing attitude against the United States in the United Nations, where it voted regularly with opponents of American policy.

When Daniel P. Moynihan, now U.S. ambassador to the U.N., was America's envoy in India, he informed the State Department that Mrs. Gandhi considered the United States "a profoundly selfish and cynical counter-revolutionary power." Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is said to have once described her as cold-blooded and tough.

If Congress is going to be asked to approve large-scale economic assistance to India, it should insist the Indian people be told where the aid is coming from. The Indian government should also give a commitment that it will curb its anti-American posture in the U.N. and elsewhere.

From Canadian Side

WASHINGTON — As far as many Canadians are concerned, the United States' 200th anniversary is no cause for celebration. Instead, the bicentennial is stirring memories of American invasions of and threats to annex Canadian territory. The border between the United States and Canada is now described as the most peaceful one of its length in the world, but it was not always so.

Even before the Declaration of Independence, American colonists attempted to wrest Canada from British control. They ascribed to themselves the highest of motives. John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress, declared that American arms would "open a Way for Blessings of Liberty, and the Happiness of well-ordered Government to visit that extensive Dominion."

After some hesitation, the Congress authorized an invasion of Canada if it were found to be practicable. A force headed by Gen. Richard Montgomery landed north from Ft. Ticonderoga, N.Y., and occupied Montreal on Nov. 13, 1775. A second expedition under the command of Col. Benedict Arnold, was less fortunate. Many men were lost during the trek through Maine wilderness; only 700 made it all the way to Quebec. That city held out against the American siege, and the surviving invaders were obliged to retreat across the border.

Anti-American feeling in Canada grew during the ensuing Revolutionary War years. It is estimated that 100,000 Americans loyal to the British Crown were exiled by the Revolution. Around 40,000 of them ended up in Canada, chiefly in the sparsely settled Maritime Provinces. Others formed the first English-speaking population in what became the Province of Ontario.

Many descendants of these exiles belong to the United Empire Loyalist Association, the oldest patriotic organization in Canada. To them as to their ancestors, the American Revolution was a mistake. "George Washington and his crowd were the traitors, not the loyalists, our ancestors who were the founding fathers of Canada," said Charlotte Winslow of Woodstock, New Brunswick.

Eric Teed, secretary of the United Empire Loyalists of St. John, New Brunswick, introduced a resolution last June that was adopted unanimously by his fellow members. "The resolution," he said, "was that we wear black armbands at all future meetings during the American bicentennial years 1975 and 1976."

The revolution is only one of several old grievances. American forces again invaded Canada during the War of 1812. Border disputes flared from time to time, most notably over the Oregon Territory in the mid-1840s. Expansionists in this country demanded that the boundary be drawn at 54° 40' north latitude; hence the slogan "Fifty-Four Forty or Fight." But President Polk compromised with the British on the 49th parallel.

Meanwhile, there was occasional talk on both sides of the border of American annexation of Canada, either through armed force or because of economic necessity on Canada's part. Canadian fears of American territorial expansionism did not begin to subside until after World War I, and today they have all but disappeared. Still, the tensions of the past have left their imprint. In Canada, July 4, 1976, promises to be a mid-summer day much like any other.

Wilson & Co. Will Close Plants In Omaha, K.C.

Omaha (AP) — Wilson & Co., Inc., announced in Omaha Friday that it will close its Omaha and Kansas City, Kan., plants on or after April 3, 1976, throwing 1,100 persons out of work.

The Omaha plant, built in 1916, presently employs 700 persons while the Kansas City plant has 400 employees.

A company spokesman said efforts would be made to help the employees find new employment and some employees might be transferred to other Wilson operations.

The Oklahoma City, Okla., based meat packing and processing firm is a subsidiary of the LTV Corp. of Dallas, Tex.

In a prepared release, Wilson President and Chief Executive Officer K. J. Griggy said that "despite numerous expansion and modernization programs over the years, the plants can no longer be operated on a profitable basis." Griggy also cited "changing livestock marketing and distribution patterns" and the need for the company to "consolidate production in fewer and more efficient facilities."

Griggy stressed that the decision was based on long-range planning analysis and not on the short supply of hogs and subsequent lower production which forced the firm to temporarily close most of the Omaha plant twice since June. The same shortage forced discontinuance of hog slaughtering operations in Kansas City last March.

Currently, the Omaha plant slaughters and processes beef and pork, while the Kansas City plant operations are limited to cattle slaughtering and pork processing.

Griggy's statement said disposition of the firm's plants in Omaha and Kansas City is under study. He said, "Every effort will be made to see that it is utilized in a manner that will provide industry and employment for both cities."

He said customers of the two plants would be served from other plants which Wilson has in Cherokee, Des Moines and Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Marshall, Mo.; Albert Lea, Minn.; Monmouth, Ill., and Logansport, Ind.

Griggy said the firm will maintain a market for livestock in the Omaha and Kansas City areas.

Wilson has worldwide sales in excess of $2 billion annually and produces branded meat and grocery products under the Wilson's Certified and Wilson's Corn King labels.

The company has 18 fresh meat plants, four poultry units and facilities in England and New Zealand.

Head-On Collisions Kill 6 As Traffic Fatalities Rise

By The Associated Press

Six persons were killed in Nebraska traffic accidents Thursday, three in a collision near Beatrice and three in a mishap south of Pilger, and a man died of injuries suffered in an accident Monday.

The Hamilton County sheriff's office said Raymond Oswald, 71, of Aurora died in an Aurora hospital.

Officers said Oswald's southbound stock truck collided with a pickup truck at an intersection one mile south of Aurora. The truck was driven by Charles L. Jansen, 41, of Aurora. Jansen escaped injury.

The Gage County sheriff's office said those killed in a head-on collision 6 1/2 miles north of Beatrice on U.S. 77 were Donald L. English, 21, of Wichita, Kan.; Ricky W. Schnee, 18, of Tulsa, Okla., and Donald E. Rhodes, 18, of Pekin, Ill.

Officers said English was the driver of one car and the other two were passengers. Another passenger, William W. Krueger, 19, of Mankato, Minn., was hospitalized in Beatrice and was reported in guarded condition.

English and Rhodes were dead on arrival at a Beatrice hospital and Schnee died on route from Beatrice to a Lincoln hospital.

The sheriff's office said the southbound English car was in collision at the crest of a hill with one driven by Harry W. Schmale 42, of Cortland. Schmale and his wife Lois, 42, were hospitalized. Their son Darryl, 13, and six-year-old daughter Donna were treated and released from the hospital.

The sheriff's office said there were no witnesses to the accident.

Victims of an accident on Nebraska 15 about four miles south of Pilger were identified as Urban Hoebelheimeier, 58, of rural Yankton, S.D., the driver of one vehicle, and Randy Hall, 23, of Norfolk and Jerry A. Skublicki, 36, of Wisner, who were in the other.

Skublicki, a native of Poland, was his country's table tennis champion. He moved to Wisner from Denver last June, and had been living with a local family while teaching table tennis. He had traveled the world as a member of Poland's World Table Tennis Team, and had been his state's snow skiing champion.

Officials said Skublicki's visa was being processed, and that he was scheduled to appear for his final visa hearing next week.

Skublicki is survived by his wife and two sons, who remain in Poland. They were to have joined him after the approval of his visa.

The deaths raised Nebraska's 1975 traffic fatality toll to 283, compared with 291 at this time last year.

Valentine Child Drowns In Pool

Valentine (AP) — A Valentine toddler accidentally drowned Thursday in a residential swimming pool here.

Cherry County authorities identified the victim as 2-year-old David Shelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Shelton.

Investigators said the child and his mother were visiting the Roger Sanford residence, when the boy apparently crawled over or through a fence and fell into the Sanford's pool.

Officials Probe Kearney State Tapestry Theft

Kearney (AP) — Kearney-area authorities are continuing their probe into the first-ever theft from the Kearney State College Art Gallery.

School officials say a tapestry valued at about $350 was taken from the gallery about mid-day last Friday.

"It's the first time that we have ever had anything taken from the gallery," said Jack Karraker, head of the Kearney State Art Dept.

The show which included the tapestry is not insured, and Karraker said, "Legally we are not responsible, but we feel we have a moral obligation to replace it."

State money may not be used to replace the work, so the department is looking to other resources to cover the cost.

Fairbury Students Against Move

By DEAN TERRILL

Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Fairbury — A survey of students on the Fairbury campus of Southeast Community College indicates that 70% would not move with the school if it is shifted to Pershing College.

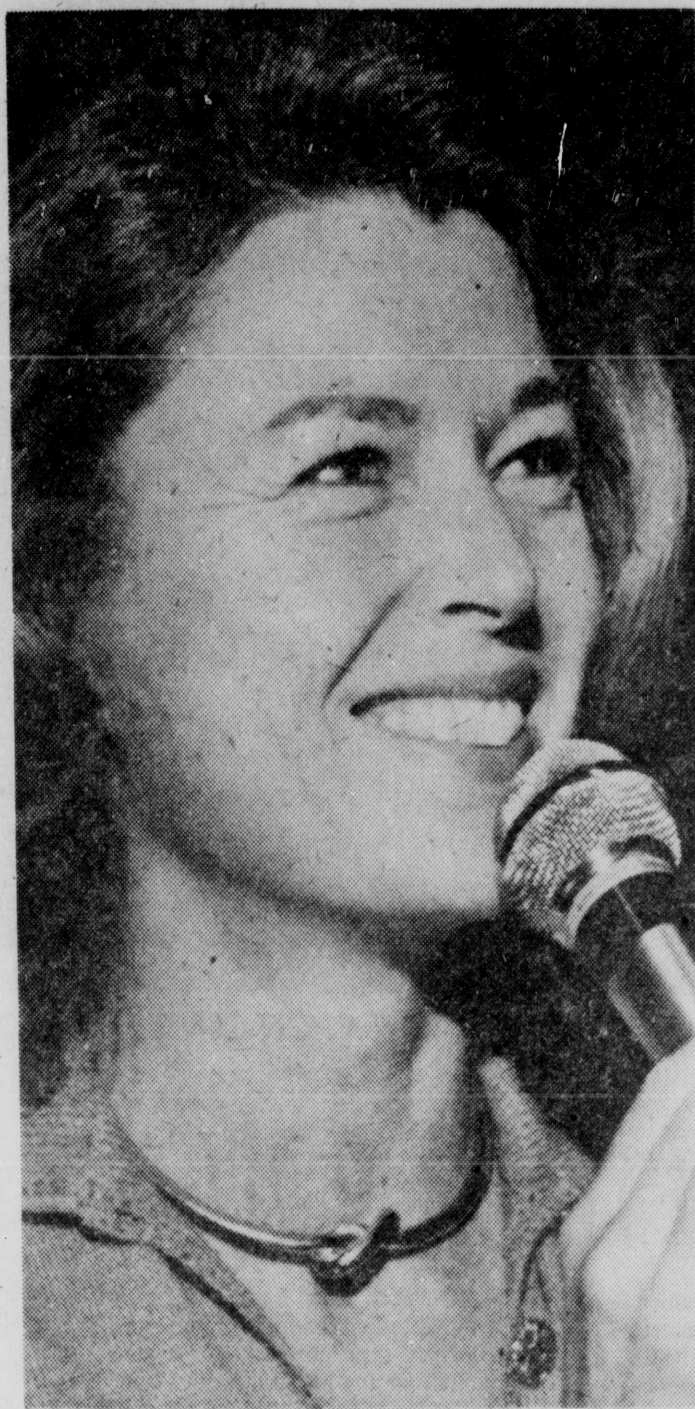

With about half the student body responding to a printed questionnaire, only 39 persons said they would continue at Beatrice. Negative answers totaled 94.

Two Freshmen

The poll, conducted by freshmen Dan Cox of Beatrice and Tom Ramsbottom of Hebron, covered several points in the controversy over the proposed move. Both students have filed for the Student Senate presidency in a current campaign.

"Since the student body had not been asked its opinion previously, we felt a survey was in order," said Ramsbottom. "It would seem the students themselves should be entitled to some voice in a decision affecting their future as well as this entire area."

Asked if they thought an academic transfer program should be continued the students responded with a resounding 132-3 affirmative vote. Ramsbottom said SeTech officials have not made it clear whether they intend to continue a transfer program if the campus is moved.

MISS AMERICA 1958 . . . has message.

Beauty Contest Winner Teaches Self-Confidence

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

For Marilyn Van Derbur, the greatest reward of being Miss America was "learning I could do more than I thought I could."

And in the past 14 years she has spent thousands of hours passing that message on to hundreds of thousands of teen-agers across the country.

Before you start counting on your fingers, she wasn't Miss America 14 years ago. A high school boy in Boston once asked if she was Miss America in 1969.

"I told him to spread the rumor," she confided Friday during a visit to Lincoln.

Actually, it was 1958 when she won the crown and took the long stroll to Burt Park's vocal efforts, probably longer ago than she'd like to think about.

She's still extremely attractive and svelte. "Everybody works at their figure," she said, answering an unasked question.

"I've never been called a beautiful girl," she said.

Once more, she said she never really wanted the title, but it has served as a springboard to launch her career in motivational work.

Out Of The Room

"I was nominated while I was out of the room," she explained. While she was on a long-distance phone call, her sorority sisters nominated her for Miss University of Colorado. "I tried to get out of it but they wouldn't let me."

Winning the title was nothing, compared to what lay ahead, she said. The night after she won, she appeared on the Steve Allen Show and had to play a song she had never even seen before.

"Nobody asked, 'Can you do it?'"
A day later she addressed a national mayor's convention. She was terrified.

"That was the beginning," she said. "I soon learned the best way to overcome fright is to believe strongly in what you're saying."

Now when she's speaking to groups, like the National Personnel and Guidance Association meeting this week at the Nebraska Center, she tells them exactly what she believes most strongly in: The top priority of education should be to help students gain confidence and self-worth.

That means nothing, she said, "unless you tell teachers that suicide is the second leading cause of death in 15- to 24-year-olds; that one in nine youths ends up in juvenile court before the age of 18, and that the major contributing cause of juvenile delinquency and drop outs is low self-esteem."

'Means Nothing'

"You want to know what I remember from physics? Zero. Social studies? Zero. And I was Phi Beta Kappa, straight A's. It means nothing unless you go out and accomplish something."

In 1969 Ms. Van Derbur addressed over 250,000 teen-agers in high schools from Maine to California.

She told the students that "because you have failed doesn't mean you're a failure."

— that Bobby Kennedy had flunked third grade.

— that Babe Ruth had held the world's strike-out record (1,330) as well as the home-run record (714)

— that Ernest Hemingway rewrote the last chapter of "Farewell to Arms" 39 times.

Feedback from the kids indicated they were listening.

And because so many principals, teachers and counselors have requested the minicourse materials, she formed the Marilyn Van Derbur Motivational Institute, which is now releasing films and cassettes for youths and adults.

Though she didn't tell the counselors, Ms. Van Derbur later talked about a personal "failure."

It was her homecoming to Denver after winning the pageant. Dozens of reporters were there with cameras, lights, tape recorders. The first questioner asked if it were true that she couldn't even win queen of Regis College, which she had been nominated for a year earlier.

It was true, she admitted, but she was glad the same judges weren't in Atlantic City.

Reformatories, Penitentiary Architects Named

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Kirkham, Michael & Associates of Omaha, in conjunction with Gruzen & Partners of New York City, has been chosen by state corrections officials as the architect for two new Men's Reformatories in Lincoln and Omaha.

In addition, the Leo A. Daly firm of Omaha, in association with Curtis & Davis of New Orleans, has been picked to design new housing at the State Penitentiary in Lincoln.

State Corrections Director

Joseph Vitek Friday informed the firms that they had been chosen from more than 30 applicants to perform the architectural work.

The 1975 Legislature authorized Vitek to begin construction of two new reformatories to replace the aging one now located in southwest Lincoln.

The new reformatories carry a $9 million price tag. Construction of the 250-man Lincoln reformatory is supposed to begin by July 1, 1976, while the 200-man Omaha reformatory is supposed to be underway by Jan. 1, 1977.

Legislators will have to appropriate construction funds this winter for the actual work to begin.

The Lincoln reformatory will be located on the grounds of the existing reformatory. However, a site for the Omaha unit, and even its existence, is still in question.

A site selection committee named by Gov. J. James Exon has recommended construction of the unit immediately south of Eppley Airfield's south runway. Exon, however, has not agreed to that site as yet, due to financial and airport-related considerations.

Vitek said he hopes to meet with representatives of the firms the first of next week to iron out exact contract details. A specific fee for the architectural services has not been reached, Vitek said.

The proposed contract will then be submitted to the State Department of Administrative Services for approval, he said.

Vitek said a committee of corrections officials and State Institutions Engineer Carl Botsford interviewed the six finalists this week.

Firms' ability to design a functional reformatory as well as their past experience was used in the selection process, he said. Both Gruzen & Partners and Davis & Curtis are experienced in building penal facilities.

Curtis & Davis and the Henningson, Durham & Richardson Co. drafted the master plan for penal reform the Legislature's Judiciary Committee has relied on.

Henningson, Durham & Richardson helped design the new $20 million State Office Building now being built on the Centennial Mall.

Citizens' Tips Of Threats Rose During Ford's Visit To Omaha

Omaha (UPI) — The Secret Service had a "substantial increase" in telephone calls from citizens with tips on potential threats to President Ford during his visit to Omaha, special agent Robert J. Knepp said Friday.

Knepp attributed the increased citizen participation to an "overall greater awareness" of presidential security in light of the two assassination attempts against Ford.

Knepp, who heads Secret Service operations in Nebraska and Iowa, said the citizen tips were checked out, but no arrests nor "commitments" to security facilities were made during or prior to the President's visit Wednesday.

Ford was in Omaha to speak to the 10th White House Conference on Domestic and Economic Affairs. He ventured into crowds for the first time since the attempt was made on his life in San Francisco last week.

"Everyone is becoming more aware of presidential security than they were before," Knepp told UPI in an interview. "That doesn't mean the security itself has changed. I think our agents are always ready to react the same way they have done in the past."

"The main difference now," Knepp said, "is everybody is waiting to see what we're doing or what we will do."

"The performance of all security people during the President's visit to Omaha," Knepp said, "was consistent with their past efforts. It was highly commendable."

Knepp said he would rather stay out of a "numbers game" but emphasized the "significant increase in telephone calls doesn't mean there was an increased number of threats against the President — that's not the case."

Because of the increased publicity surrounding security, Knepp said, "People are becoming more aware of behavior patterns. Perhaps when they see something they normally wouldn't think was out of the ordinary in the past, they now believe it is."

Rain Needed For Control Of Thistles

The current dry weather over much of the state is threatening a planned fall musk thistle control program, a University of Nebraska Extension agronomist said Friday.

Dr. Alex Martin said that if significant rainfall is not received by mid-October, musk thistle spraying should be shelved until next spring.

"Normally, fall is a good time to spray musk thistle," Martin said. Seedlings and rosettes present in the fall will flower and produce seed the immediate next summer. Plants that germinate in the spring and summer will normally not flower and produce seed until the following summer, he explained.

"This means that if an effective control is obtained in the fall, the area would not have to be sprayed in the spring — a real advantage in terms of the farmers' seasonal workload," Martin said.

The dry weather has greatly reduced the number of musk thistle seeds that have germinated this fall, he said. Unless rainfall is received soon, there will not be enough plants present this fall to warrant spraying. Thistles are suffering from the dry weather and will not be readily controlled by spraying, Martin advised. "It all adds up to the conclusion that rain is necessary before a fall musk thistle spray program can be effective," the NU Extension weed specialist stated.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

2nd Psalm and Acts 4:25

VIRTUE ALONE COULD PROCURE TRUE HAPPINESS. This column has appeared over 700 times in the past 13 1/2 years. In about the 400th column, the above quotation appeared — "VIRTUE ALONE COULD PROCURE TRUE HAPPINESS."

The following is the entire article as it appeared about 6 years ago:

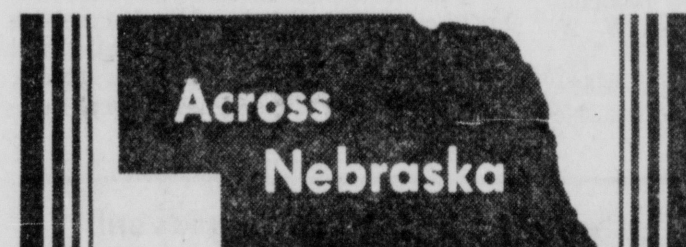

"CHASTITY IS DRIVEN AWAY BY ALL MEN, LIKE A SNAKE!" Think this quote was spoken of the generation of Dante's times. There is cause to fear that it is fearfully true and applicable to our day and generation. Sitting on the "high seat" and "handling the reins" in this "drive" it appears there are some highly esteemed Clergymen and Educators! According to the statement of The Lord Jesus Christ, such should have "a millstone tied about their neck and drowned in the depth of the sea!" — And I would comment there ought to be apologies made to all maritime life in the sea for so Polluting Their Water! The following appeared in this column Feb. 19, 1966.

The past few articles in this column have dealt with how Abraham, Friend of God, was the means of delivering some of his kinfolk out of Sodom just before the judgement of God fell, fire and brimstone falling from heaven consuming the city and the inhabitants! Sins of sex obsession was one of the causes of the terrible judgment. The account of these things are written for our admonition and warning! And how we need to take heed to this warning! Being plagued with sex obsession sins and in danger of the curse of God falling upon our nation.

"Chastity is driven away by all men, like a snake!" The following is the historical testimony of a beautiful Christian young woman whose "chastity" all men failed to drive away: "HER CHASTITY WAS IMPREGNABLE!" and she testified by life, suffering, and death "VIRTUE ALONE COULD PROCURE TRUE HAPPINESS!"

In the year 249 A. D. Decius was the Roman Emperor. He became angered and enraged because of the amazing increase of Christianity which caused the heathen temples to be forsaken and the Christian Churches thronged. For these reasons he attempted the very extermination of the name Christian. In general his subjects, raging heathen, were ambitious to enforce the imperial decrees, and looked upon the murder of Christians as a merit to themselves. At that time under such conditions, there lived in Sicily a lady by the name of Agatha. She was remarkable for personal and acquired endowments, but most of all for Christian consecration and piety. On account of her great beauty the governor of Sicily, Quintian, fell in love with her, and made many attempts upon her chastity without success. In order to gratify his passion with greater convenience he put the virtuous lady in the hands of Aphrodica, a very infamous and licentious woman. This wretch tried every artifice she could to win her to the desired prostitution; but found there was "nothing doing," for her chastity was impregnable, and she well knew that virtue alone could procure true happiness. Aphrodica reported to the Governor the failure of all her efforts, who, enraged at being foiled in his design changed his lust into resentment. When Agatha confessed she was a Christian, the governor, being encouraged and supported by the emperor's effort to wipe Christianity, determined to gratify his revenge as he could not his passion. Agatha was scourged, burnt with red hot irons, and torn with sharp hooks. She bore these torments with admirable fortitude. Next she was laid naked upon live coals, intermingled with glass, and then being carried back to her prison, she there died on Feb. 5th, 251 A.D. She lost her life, but not her virtue: "HER CHASTITY WAS IMPREGNABLE!"

It's Not A Country Club

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

It's not the country club that some critics have hailed it.

Neither is it the grey, imposing building often associated with juvenile detention centers.

The red brick attention center, a new, one-story complex, has a fireplace and the latest in game equipment. It also has rigid security measures and listening monitors in every room.

The colors inside are bright, inviting yellows, reds and oranges. The day room, the hub for future activities, has a sunken pit area with a fireplace for quiet times, another smaller TV pit and a large central area with new couches and large table games.

Like spokes from a wheel the four wings radiate from the central day area. In the wings are 19 small, individual rooms with built in bed and desk area. Two of the rooms are designed as security rooms, with all cement desk and bed.

Each room is also equipped with a sound system which can be used to pipe in music or to talk with and listen to the youth.

The building also has a reception area, a separate in-take area for the new arrivals, offices and board room.

Between the bedroom wings are two fenced outdoor areas for basketball, croquet or just lounging around a picnic table.

The newly built facility, at 2220 S. 10th St., lends itself to a positive program for youth, compared to most detention centers across the U.S., said John Hill, director of the new center.

The youths, normally teenage offenders who can't be kept at home or in a foster home before a court appearance, will undoubtedly be upset by the fact that they are being detained, said Hill. But the combination of an attractive structure plus good staff and program can be a positive influence, he said.

Using words like "behavior modification," "transactional analysis" and "reality therapy," Hill explained the positive approach the staff will use in dealing with youth.

The staff will deal with the here and now, what the youths are doing today and tomorrow, an "I'm ok you're ok" attitude, Hill said.

The new equipment — crafts, pool table, air hockey, foosball, ping pong and a host of quieter games — are also a part of the short term program for the staff of 10.

"We won't have years to work with these young people. We may only have hours," said Hill.

When the building opens, probably in late October, the staff will handle between six to nine people a day for an average stay of four to five days, Hill estimated.

The staff will also be trained to be security wise, Hill said. Youths will be searched when they first enter the center. All items which could be used as weapons, including belts, will be taken away.

An official dedication of the Jennie B. Harrel Attention Center For Youth is planned for Sunday at 3 p.m. The building will be open for tours between 2 and 5 p.m.

The dedication ceremonies mark the last phase of more than four years of planning and construction for the $425,000 facility.

The major force behind the new center, separate Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Nuernberger has been talking about and hoping for a new juvenile center for 15 years.

In the past, juveniles have been housed in a portion of the Westview Home (formerly the county poor farm) and the greatest security risks were put in the county jail.

Planning for the new facility began in 1971, and a series of federal grants paid for more than half the construction and equipment costs.

But it all hasn't been easy. Despite hours of leg work to make sure the building had none of the bugs which have plagued other detention centers, there have been a few problems.

Locks on the perimeter doors can be opened with a credit card. The two security rooms were not as secure as anticipated.

It took a 175-pound volunteer less than 15 minutes to jam the door and shatter the window during a test of the security room.

And with little effort Robert Parratt, Penal Complex warden, ripped out a pressed wood desk in one of the regular bedrooms. The locks and rooms will be fixed, but just who should pay — the county or the architect — is still being debated.

"The positives of the new building, however, outweigh the few problems," Hill said.

Open House Is Sunday

"Would I want my child to stay here?" — That's the question that parents should ask themselves as they tour the newly constructed Jennie B. Harrel Attention Center For Youth this Sunday, said Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Nuernberger.

The $435,000 facility at 2220 S. 10th St. will be officially dedicated at 3 p.m., with tours available from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The center is named after Mrs. Jennie Harrel, the matron at the juvenile detention center for more than 20 years.

Guest speakers at the dedication will include Fred Nader, acting director of the National Advisory Commission on Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, and Harris Owens, executive director of the Nebraska Crime Commission.

Where Did He Learn To Do That? At Home!

DEAR ABBY: It's about time someone spoke up for the much maligned younger generation:

When Johnny was 6, he was with his father when they were caught speeding. He saw his father hand the officer a $5 bill with his driver's license. No ticket.

When Johnny was 10, he broke his glasses on the way to school. He heard his mother tell the man from the insurance company that they had been "stolen," and they collected $27.

When Johnny was 15, he made right guard on the high school football team. His coach taught him to block and, at the same time, grab the opposing end by the shirt so the official couldn't see it.

When he was 16, he took a summer job at a big market. His job was to put the overripe tomatoes in the bottom of the boxes and good ones on top.

When Johnny went to college, he was approached by an upperclassman who offered him the answers to an English exam for $3. "It's O.K. kids," he was told, "everybody does it." Johnny was caught and sent home in disgrace.

"How could you do this to your mother and me?" his father asked. "You never learned anything like this at home!"

If there's one thing the adult world can't stand, it's a kid who cheats.

ROY R.: SAN DIEGO

DEAR ROY: Thanks for a wonderful letter.

DEAR ABBY: The woman who "lent" the embarrassed lady in front of her at the check-out stand at the market a dollar so she could pay for her purchases had the wrong attitude. (She said she was disappointed because the lady took her name and address, promising to pay it back, but never did.)

She should have given her the dollar as a gesture of kindness. I am reminded of one time when I was in the hospital years ago. An old fellow in the bed next to mine was due to be discharged that morning, and he was despondent because he owed the hospital $5 and they wouldn't discharge him until he paid it. (All his other hospital obligations were taken care of.)

I had never seen the man before my hospital stay, and for that matter have not seen him since, but I didn't hesitate to give him the $5 so he could get released.

He asked me to write my name and address on a piece of paper so he could pay me back. I didn't want to, but he insisted.

so I hastily scribbled, "V. Reynolds, Bountiful, Utah," and gave it to him.

Two years later, when I was having a particularly hard time of it, I received an envelope with a New York postmark. Pasted on the outside of the envelope was the same scrap of paper on which I'd written my name and address. On opening the envelope I found TWO crisp $100 bills! No letter, no explanation, nothing — just the money.

I don't know what happened to the man. I don't even know his name, but he certainly repaid me 40 times over.

V.R.: BOUNTIFUL, UTAH
DEAR V.R.: Beautiful! And what an appropriate coincidence that you come from Bountiful.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

The bidding:
West Pass North 1♦ East 2♥ South 3♦
2♦ Pass 3♥ Pass 4♥ Pass

Opening lead - six of spades. It is odd, even in terms of four play, for a declarer at one table to get to three hearts and go down one, while at the other table the declarer gets to four hearts and makes it.

But such things do happen and, quite often, there is at least some reasonable explanation of how these curiosities come about.

Consider this deal, for example, where the bidding at the first table went as shown. West led a spade, won by East with the ten, and East returned a trump, won by West with the jack. West led a second trump, taken in dummy with the nine.

Declarer played a low club to the king and returned a low club to East's ace. East, a persistent soul, played a third round of trumps and the outcome was that South finished down one, losing three club tricks, a spade and a heart.

At the second table, the bidding went:

West North East South
Pass Pass 1♦ 1♥
2♦ 2♥ Pass 4♥

West led the queen of diamonds. Declarer won with the ace, played a club to the king and continued with a low club to the ace. East returned a diamond to declarer's king, whereupon South played a low club and ruffed it in dummy with the nine.

East overruffed with the king and played a third diamond. Declarer ruffed and trumped the fourth round of clubs with dummy's six. East was unable to overruff and the outcome was that South made four hearts. His only losers were a spade, a heart and a club — thus proving that different methods of defense lead to different results.

Opening lead — six of spades. It is odd, even in team of four play, for a declarer at one table to get to three hearts and go down one, while at the other table the declarer gets to four hearts and makes it.

But such things do happen and, quite often, there is at least some reasonable explanation of how these curiosities come about.

Consider this deal, for example, where the bidding at the first table went as shown. West led a spade, won by East with the ten, and East returned a trump, won by West with the jack. West led a second trump, taken in dummy with the nine.

Declarer played a low club to the king and returned a low club to East's ace. East, a persistent soul, played a third round of trumps and the outcome was that South finished down one, losing three club tricks, a spade and a heart.

At the second table, the bidding went:

West North East South
Pass Pass 1 1
2 2 Pass 4

West led the queen of diamonds. Declarer won with the ace, played a club to the king and continued with a low club to the ace. East returned a diamond to declarer's king, whereupon South played a low club and ruffed it in dummy with the nine.

East overruffed with the king and played a third diamond. Declarer ruffed and trumped the fourth round of clubs with dummy's six. East was unable to overruff and the outcome was that South made four hearts. His only losers were a spade, a heart and a club — thus proving that different methods of defense lead to different results.

Exon Must Endorse Candidate

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Reluctantly, Gov. J. James Exon Friday said he has decided to endorse a Democratic presidential candidate prior to next spring's Nebraska primary election. Exon will then be a candidate for delegate to the Democratic national convention committed to support his presidential choice.

His decision is certain to trigger a procession of presidential candidates to his doorstep, especially those who plan an active primary campaign in Nebraska or hope to gain delegate strength from next May's election.

"I would much prefer to remain neutral," Exon said in a Statehouse interview. "But under our law there is probably no other way to get to the Democratic convention as a delegate."

Democratic presidential hopefuls — nine so far, with more to come — the governor said he expects his endorsement will be "a very difficult choice."

Exon said he will choose a candidate whom "I could enthusiastically support . . . but we do not necessarily have to agree about everything which affects the nation."

Exon declined to name any possibilities at this stage. "It's wide open," he said.

Endorsement Valuable
Exon's demonstrated popularity with Democratic voters in Nebraska is likely to make his endorsement a widely sought prize.

Nebraska Democrats will name their presidential preference in the spring primary, and elect 23 delegates to the national convention. All will be elected by congressional districts, with the governor a candidate in the First District.

Under the terms of an agreement arranged by Democratic National Committeewoman Frances Ohmsted, Secretary of State Allen Beermann will accept filings from committed delegate candidates only if they have the written approval of their presidential choice.

That arrangement meets the wishes of the Democratic National Committee's national rules compliance commission.

But Exon said he is "not pleased" with the process.

It does not assure delegate representation proportionate to a presidential candidate's preferential primary vote totals, he said.

Second Try For Change

So the governor again plans to ask the Legislature to amend the presidential primary law to assure proportional delegate representation. An earlier request in the 1974 legislative session was ignored.

"It's a bad law," Exon said. Although the process agreed to by Beermann may be "the only practical answer" to the problem of meeting the party's national requirements, the governor said he will still attempt to "come up with a workable compromise" early in the 1976 legislative session.

Exon has proposed a caucus of committed delegate candidates after the primary election to choose delegates in a number proportionate to each presidential candidate's popular vote.

"The voting strength of each presidential candidate should be reflected in the number of committed delegates he will have at the convention," Exon said.

'Keep Things Rolling' At UNL Is Interim Chancellor's Plan

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Pledging to "meet squarely and promptly whatever issues and problems arise," the University of Nebraska-Lincoln interim chancellor declared Friday he's no caretaker and will actively "keep things rolling."

Moving down the hall Wednesday from his office as vice chancellor for academic affairs, Adam C. Breckenridge brought to the chancellor's chair three decades of experience and service at UNL.

At a news conference, Breckenridge said his temporary administration will be open, as he furthers former Chancellor James Zumbege's work seeking improvements for UNL staff, students and the entire state.

Zumbege resigned to become president of Southern Methodist University. A nationwide search seeks a permanent successor by early 1976.

Decline Permanent Position
Breckenridge has declined any nomination for the post. He opted instead to complete his term through 1978 as vice chancellor, to which he was named permanently in August after serving in as acting vice chancellor for 13 months.

Developing a solid reputation as an administration troubleshooter, Breckenridge has "been acting in so many positions, he may be eligible for an Emmy," a UNL official quipped.

Breckenridge was acting director of libraries when, hearing the political science professor's nickname, Zumbege in spring 1973 asked, "Who is this Breck?" This "Breck" unflinchingly established his own course of of-vice Friday, saying with pride that UNL has "much strength" but "must continuously reexamine and reemphasize its role, its mission as a land-grant institution."

While stressing that UNL must "upgrade the quality of teaching and learning" as well as 22,000 students' living environment, Breckenridge said that this cannot preempt campus outreach work to Nebraskans.

Cooperation Promised
He promised full cooperation with the other two NU campus chancellors, regents and the public Breckenridge said he'll reveal to the "bare bones" UNL budget needs to the 1976 Legislature and pursue them "with all the vigor we can muster."

"We have a good climate for learning and we want to keep it that way," he said he will "encourage more discourse" among top administrators, faculty and students, with the exchange intended "to clarify any feelings of distress" and avoid "sharp conflicts" within the NU system.

Recognizing he "can't please everyone," Breckenridge said,

"I expect and want a critical review of the university."

Asked what the new chancellor will face, given Zumbege's stated preference for strong campus autonomy versus increasing NU system control, Breckenridge replied: "There are apt to be changes."

NU is "undergoing its growing pains," and is "a different university than I came to" originally. He said that "doesn't mean the prior arrangement was the best."

Nothing Said Permanent
Breckenridge cited a tendency to "live in the moment," and reminded that nothing is "etched in granite." He said he believes the new chancellor is "not going to be constrained because we have other reporting arrangements."

The office and its emphasis have changed with the personality of each chancellor, Breckenridge said. He prefers a humanist, with "continuing firm interest in others, their problems, their concerns, their views . . . this must be real, not a facade."

And if humanism "isn't the characteristic, we've got the wrong man."

Asked whether he'll follow Nebraska Wesleyan University's lead to liberalize rules on student use and possession of alcoholic beverages, Breckenridge said he'll examine any UNL proposals made to him. But "I do not plan to initiate any action on the subject during my tenure."

On faculty efforts to bargain collectively, Breckenridge declined to take a stance while the issue is before the courts.

Murder Charges Are Filed

Lincoln Star Special

Hastings — Second degree murder charges were filed Friday in Adams County District Court against Don Fone Yee, 17, of Hastings, according to Deputy County Attorney A.P. Madgett.

The charges came as the result of the death Thursday of 19-year-old Curtis Snavely of Superior, Madgett reported. Conspiracy charges in the case were filed against Lloyd Dale Powell, 20, also of Hastings, the official said.

An altercation between Snavely and Yee, also known as Don Blair Chapman, took place Wednesday afternoon outside a Hastings tavern, Madgett disclosed.

Snavely was taken to a Hastings hospital for treatment of injuries and died Thursday while being transferred to a Lincoln hospital, the county official said.

Results of an autopsy are still being awaited, Madgett added. Both Yee and Powell are being held in the Adams County jail in lieu of a $15,000 bond for each.

Snavely was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Snavely of Superior.

Committee Told Retirement Bill Needs Redraft

Extension amendments suggested by public employees merit a complete redrafting of a pending bill to set up a uniform retirement plan for all public employees, state senators were told Friday.

Steve Kellison, an actuary working with the Legislature's Retirement Committee, urged the committee to redraft LB532 and update its fiscal impact.

He also recommended that a task force on administration be reconvened this November to further explore potential problems with the uniform retirement system which would encompass state, county, city, police, school and judicial employees. The state presently has 17 separate retirement systems.

1972 Bid Unsuccessful

Exon sought election as an uncommitted delegate in 1972, but was unsuccessful. Nebraska Democrats chose only delegates committed either to Sen. George McGovern or Sen. Hubert Humphrey. Looking at the crowded field of

Democratic presidential hopefuls — nine so far, with more to come — the governor said he expects his endorsement will be "a very difficult choice."

Christopher Columbus had trouble recruiting sailors for his early voyages. Men were afraid, but the bravest enlisted and sailed off to the wonders of a new world.

Most of us are afraid of the unknown. We have our qualms and doubts about a new job, moving to a strange city, beginning a marriage, or simply facing the uncertainties of tomorrow. We do not know what lies ahead, and we worry about being able to cope with it. In this ever-changing world, we instinctively yearn for that which does not change.

Whatever tomorrow brings, we can have the peaceful conviction that the love of God for His children is trustworthy and everlasting.

Discover an abiding security. Worship this Sunday.

Burial Monday For Newsmen From Lexington

Lexington — Funeral services for Clyde H. Taylor Sr., 78, veteran Nebraska newspaperman, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Christian Church in Lexington. He died Thursday night.

Taylor began his newspaper career 60 years ago with the Overton Herald. He later bought the newspaper, and in 1938 he moved here and renamed it the Dawson County Herald.

In 1964, the Herald and the Lexington Clipper merged to form the Lexington Publishing Co., each paper retaining its own masthead. Taylor, who authored an editorial column for his paper, was one of the senior partners in the firm.

A native of Elm Creek, he served as president of the Nebraska Press Association in 1952 and was a member of the association's board of directors for two terms. He had attended every NPA convention since 1920.

Surviving are his wife, Marguerite; sons, Dale of Lexington and Clyde Jr. of Okmulgee, Okla.; six brothers, four sisters, four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Services Held For Crawford Mayor Soester

Crawford — Funeral services were held here for Crawford Mayor James M. Soester, 58, who died in Denver while undergoing open heart surgery.

The two-time mayor of Crawford was a lifetime resident of this area. He had been in the farm machinery business here since 1937.

Mayor Soester retired from the Crawford Volunteer Fire Department last January after 32 years of active service.

Burial Monday For Newsmen From Lexington

Lexington — Funeral services for Clyde H. Taylor Sr., 78, veteran Nebraska newspaperman, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Christian Church in Lexington. He died Thursday night.

Taylor began his newspaper career 60 years ago with the Overton Herald. He later bought the newspaper, and in 1938 he moved here and renamed it the Dawson County Herald.

In 1964, the Herald and the Lexington Clipper merged to form the Lexington Publishing Co., each paper retaining its own masthead. Taylor, who authored an editorial column for his paper, was one of the senior partners in the firm.

A native of Elm Creek, he served as president of the Nebraska Press Association in 1952 and was a member of the association's board of directors for two terms. He had attended every NPA convention since 1920.

Surviving are his wife, Marguerite; sons, Dale of Lexington and Clyde Jr. of Okmulgee, Okla.; six brothers, four sisters, four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mayor Soester retired from the Crawford Volunteer Fire Department last January after 32 years of active service.

No. 3 Bellevue Edges Top-Ranked Benson

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Omaha — Things haven't exactly been going Phil Swenson's way the last couple of weeks. But all that ended here Friday night when Bellevue's senior tight end found a penny shortly before his team's Metro Conference football showdown against Omaha Benson.

The penny must have worked its magic. Swenson, demoted to second-team status two weeks ago, caught a 13-yard fourth quarter touchdown pass as the No. 3 Chieftans tripped the No. 1 Bunnies, 7-0, before 7,800 fans at Benson field.

"I haven't been able to get my mind off this game for two weeks. That's why I lost my job. They pulled me off the No. 1 team because I wasn't concentrating," the 227-pound Swenson said.

Swenson failed to see action during the first half when both Class A powers didn't generate any significant offense.

His chance came in the fourth quarter. A center snap on an attempted punt hit a Benson up-back and gave the Chieftans a golden opportunity on the Bunnies' 14 yard line.

It took only four plays to push the ball into the end zone.

Senior quarterback Brad Humphrey rolled to his right on a bootleg play, saw Swenson get in front of Benson's Curtis Edwards, then drilled the 13 yard scoring pass with 9:47 remaining.

Bellevue's defense applied the finishing touches, checking Benson to a minus five yards rushing in the second half.

The Chieftans' only yard was a 25-yard pass to junior end Don Mangiameli with 56 seconds left in the fourth quarter.

Bellevue linebacker Joe Adams, however, snuffed out that brief surge of Benson optimism with an interception with 33 seconds remaining.

Swenson made sure his new stroke of luck didn't fade. Immediately after his touchdown catch, he gave the penny to junior varsity quarterback Rich Piper and ordered him "to guard it with his life."

Bellevue coach Bill James acknowledged that Swenson had lost his starting job "because he wasn't concentrating or blocking. It wasn't that he couldn't catch the ball."

James said his team tried to pressure Benson punter Bill Callahan on the crucial fourth-quarter miscue. "This kid is a tremendous punter," James said.

"He punts the ball 45 to 50 yards," he added. "I think he's a major college type punter and we had to try and pressure him."

Benson coach Roger Sorensen wouldn't criticize his center for the errant snap. "Our upbacks are told to get out of the way if the snap isn't on target," he indicated. "We just didn't do the job there."

James credited his entire defense for an outstanding job. "I couldn't single anyone out," he said. "It was just an excellent overall effort."

Benson finished with only 112 yards total offense and eight first downs. Bellevue produced 189 yards, including 165 on the ground, and eleven first downs. Benson frittered away an excellent first quarter opportunity to score when the Bunnies' David Henry recovered a fumbled Bellevue pitchout on the ten yard line.

After moving the ball to the seven on the next play, Benson's James Morrison returned the favor, fumbling into the arms of Bellevue's Robert Rickenback with 5:54 left in the first quarter.

Bellevue likely will assume No. 1 ratings status next week after the impressive victory. The Chieftans, now 5-0, must defeat Fremont, Omaha South, Creighton Prep and Omaha Gross to complete an unbeaten season.

Defense Against Wishbone

Defending the wishbone formation in football isn't one of the easiest things to do and Miami's Hurricanes, you might say, are 1-1 in getting the job done even though their record is 0-2.

Against Georgia Tech in the season opener, Miami yielded 442 yards against the Yellowjackets' rush. A week later, against the team that probably runs the wishbone better than anybody, Miami yielded just 163 yards to Oklahoma's running game.

What makes this subject interesting to Nebraska football fans is that the next two Husker opponents — Kansas and Oklahoma State — are primarily wishbone teams.

There isn't much chance the Nebraska defensive philosophy will be changed from the way they have played wishbone teams in the past because it would mean a complete turnaround in defensive thinking.

It is felt that if the Huskers can remain injury free on the front five — Bob Martin, Mike Fultz, John Lee, Jerry Wied and Ray Phillips — they have the tools necessary to stop just about anything an opponent can challenge them with in the way of offense.

In other words, you probably won't see a Missouri-type eight or nine man front just because a team runs the wishbone.

Eleven Angry Men

Miami's defense is described as "eleven angry men," led by Steadman "Stud" Scavella at end. It forced Oklahoma to score with the aid of a blocked punt and a recovered fumble deep in Miami territory, and a pair of field goals while limiting Joe Washington to only 54 yards rushing.

Scavella had a super night against the Sooners. He had 13 tackles, including two quarterback sacks, caused two fumbles and recovered a third, and deflected a pass that was intercepted.

The Hurricanes could find themselves having quite a bit of trouble running against Nebraska's defense, which has been effective in three games — effective enough to rank second in the nation in total defense and which has yielded just an average of 68 yards a game against the rush.

The Hurricanes left regular fullback Larry Bates at home because of an injured knee. He was their leading ball carrier against Oklahoma.

This is apt to cause Miami to go to the air more than had been originally planned with quarterback Kary Baker doing the passing. He has helped the Hurricanes average 210 yards a game on aials. Nebraska has had good success against the pass, especially against Indiana and Texas Christian.

It could all boil down to the pass defenses deciding the winner.

Miami and Nebraska have played three rousing football games in past years. Miami won at home 19-7 in 1951, lost a 20-16 decision in Lincoln two years later and then fell 36-34 in the Gotham Bowl in New York in 1962.

Fairbury Nips Crete, 20-13

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Fairbury — In a Class B contest sprinkled with long runs, Fairbury outspinted Crete Friday night, 20-13.

Or perhaps more properly, Fairbury outlasted the Cardinals, who came in sporting a 3-1 record. Crete was on Fairbury's four-yard line with a down left at the final gun.

What appeared at the time to be the super sensation of several sensational runs came with 55 seconds left as Crete's Scott Crees returned a punt some 65 yards to the Fairbury ten. But even with a pass interference call against them, the Jeffs held.

Wittler Scores

Less than four minutes before, Fairbury's Mark Wittler had broken the game open with a 45-yard pass interception which proved to be the final tally. The versatile quarterback, just crowned homecoming king, missed an extra point placement despite two previous successes.

Crete signal caller Collin Braynard had set the style for the evening on a first-quarter wide keeper which spanned 65 yards for the initial score. Zane Morton's kick put the Cardinals in front 7-0.

Fairbury was stopped on the seven by Tim Coffey's interception, the main fireworks otherwise until the third quarter. Wittler's punting kept the Cardinals deep in their territory much of the evening.

A 37-yard Fairbury pass, Wittler to Gary Pingle, combined with a personal foul penalty to set up the next counter near the end of the third period. Doyle Garrett then scooted over from the eight and Wittler kicked to a 7-7 tie.

The next score, came five minutes later as Crete's Brad Wittstruck picked off a mid-air fumble and scrambled 68 yards to the Fairbury seven. Braynard rammed over to make it 13-7, but Morton's kick was wide.

Garrett Runs

With 4:30 left, the Jeffs' Garrett raced across again from the 13 following a fumble recovery by Mike Dux. Wittler's conversion pushed to 14-13 and what then appeared to be the winning margin. His interception and 45-yard cushion came a minute later.

The winners' defense was sparked by ends David Judd and Lynn Culp. Jim Murray, Randy Dunn and Tim Coffey helped Crete.

Galbreath Out For MU Clash

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Tony Galbreath, Missouri's leading rusher, will be sidelined for the Michigan football game Saturday at Ann Arbor, Coach Al Onofrio said Friday.

He said Galbreath, starting defensive tackle Keith Morrissey and Curtis Kirkland, a second-team defensive lineman, would not make the trip to Michigan.

Onofrio named Jernel Williams to replace Galbreath at tailback and Tom Cooper to fill in for Morrissey.

Galbreath injured his right heel two weeks ago against Illinois and aggravated the injury last week against Wisconsin, a team spokesman said.

Morrissey injured his left knee in practice Wednesday night, and Kirkland was sidelined by a nerve problem in his neck and shoulders.

Pius X Nips Orangemen

By DAVE SITTLER

Beatrice — Powered by the brilliant running effort of I-back Tom Doggett, the Lincoln Pius X Thunderbolts staged a second-half rally here Friday night to overcome Beatrice, 35-27.

Doggett, a 5-10, 170-pounder, displayed the running skills that earned him Journal and Star All-State honors as a junior, as he rushed for 173 yards on 23 carries.

It took all the talents Doggett and his Thunderbolt teammates could muster, to overcome a fired-up Beatrice team which led 21-13 at halftime.

It was the fifth win for the undefeated Bolts, and the third time this season coach Vince Aldrich's club has been forced to come from behind to win.

"I don't know if I'm going to live through this season," a relieved Aldrich jested after the game. "You have to give Beatrice a lot of credit for the way they played us."

Coach Ernie Stark's Orangemen played the Bolts tough from the opening whistle, jumping to a 7-0 lead with 3:21 left in the first quarter.

Quarterback Doug Lovell, who sparked Beatrice's wishbone by scoring twice and rushing for 80 yards, got the first score of the night on an eight-yard run.

Following the Orangemen's opening score, it took the Bolts only four plays to tie the contest at 7-7.

It was Doggett on all four plays, as the rugged senior picked 59 yards including the touchdown on a 14-yard scamper up the middle with 1:12 left in the quarter.

Beatrice roared right back, driving 53 yards in 15 plays with halfback Ron Brannen getting the score on a one-yard blast.

Brannen and fullback Larry Diller were the other cogs in Beatrice's strong rushing attack along with Lovell, as they rushed for 63 and 90 yards, respectively.

The Orangemen quickly built their lead to 21-7, following a Pius X fumble on the Bolts 34-yard line which Beatrice tackle Brad Oltman recovered.

Diller got the score with 1:38 left in the first half on a one-yard run and John Parks added his third conversion of the evening.

With its No. 1 Class B ranking appearing a bit shaky and its unbeaten streak definitely in trouble, Pius X quickly moved to the air to score with only eight seconds left in the half.

Quarterback Pat Fuller drilled three straight completions good for 57 yards to move the Bolts to Beatrice's six-yard line.

From there, halfback Steve Rohren caught the Beatrice defense by surprise when he flipped a touchdown pass to end Ron Coniglio.

"That touchdown was very important," Aldrich said. "We needed a quick one to get back in the game and to give us some momentum."

The score seemed to inspire the Pius X defense, which had given up 166 yards rushing and 11 first downs in the opening half.

Holding Beatrice to only one first down in the third quarter, Pius X scored twice to take a 27-21 lead. Both touchdowns were set up when Beatrice coach Stark elected to go for first downs on fourth-down situations near mid-field. Both times Pius X held.

"Our defense undoubtedly made the difference in the second half," Aldrich said. "And of course Doggett was really something."

Gaining 108 of his rushing yards in the final half, Doggett grabbed a 22-yard scoring pass from Fuller to move Pius X within two points at 21-19.

He then put the Bolts ahead for the first time in the game with a 12-yard run with only :40 left in the third quarter.

Fullback Jerry Koban added the insurance score on a two-yard run with 6:19 left in the last quarter, before Beatrice's Lovell ended the scoring on a one-yard run with :49 left in the game.

The contest was such an offensive show, that Pius X did not punt once all evening, while Beatrice punted only once.

The win over the Class A Orangemen gave Pius X five bonus points in the upcoming football playoffs.

The Bolts, who face Omaha Holy Name next week, upped their record to 5-0 while Beatrice slips to 1-3 and meets Kearney next Friday.

Unbeaten Rockets Breeze By Papillion

Papillion — The undefeated Lincoln Northeast Rockets cashed in on the big plays to down Papillion, 40-20, here Friday night in an Eastern I-80 conference game.

LNE quarterback Doug Berka and halfback Steve Elker provided most of the thrills and the points for the second-ranked Rockets as they boosted their record to 5-0 while dropping Papillion to 3-2.

Northeast fullback Virgil Haase opened the scoring with a one-yard dive that capped a 36-yard Rocket drive, and that was the last typical score of the game.

It's doubtful that many of the 4,164 spectators at Seacrest Field Friday night watching the Lincoln High-Southeast football game were expecting an aerial display.

The two teams had scored just six touchdowns between them in the first eight games of the season.

Now they've accumulated nine touchdowns in nine games with Southeast getting the tiebreaker on one of 46 passes thrown to defeat cross-town rival Lincoln High 14-6.

Southeast's Ed Davis completed 15 of 22 attempts for 128 yards and a touchdown to Gary Hager for the deciding spread midway through the third quarter.

Similar Success

Lincoln High's Dean Carstens had similar success hitting on 10 of 24 attempts for 132 yards, but four interceptions and a host of other miscues halted the Links upset bid and gave the Knights their third straight win after two earlier defeats.

Coach Jerry Ball's Links turned the ball over on three other occasions, all critical, on one fumble and two punt blocks.

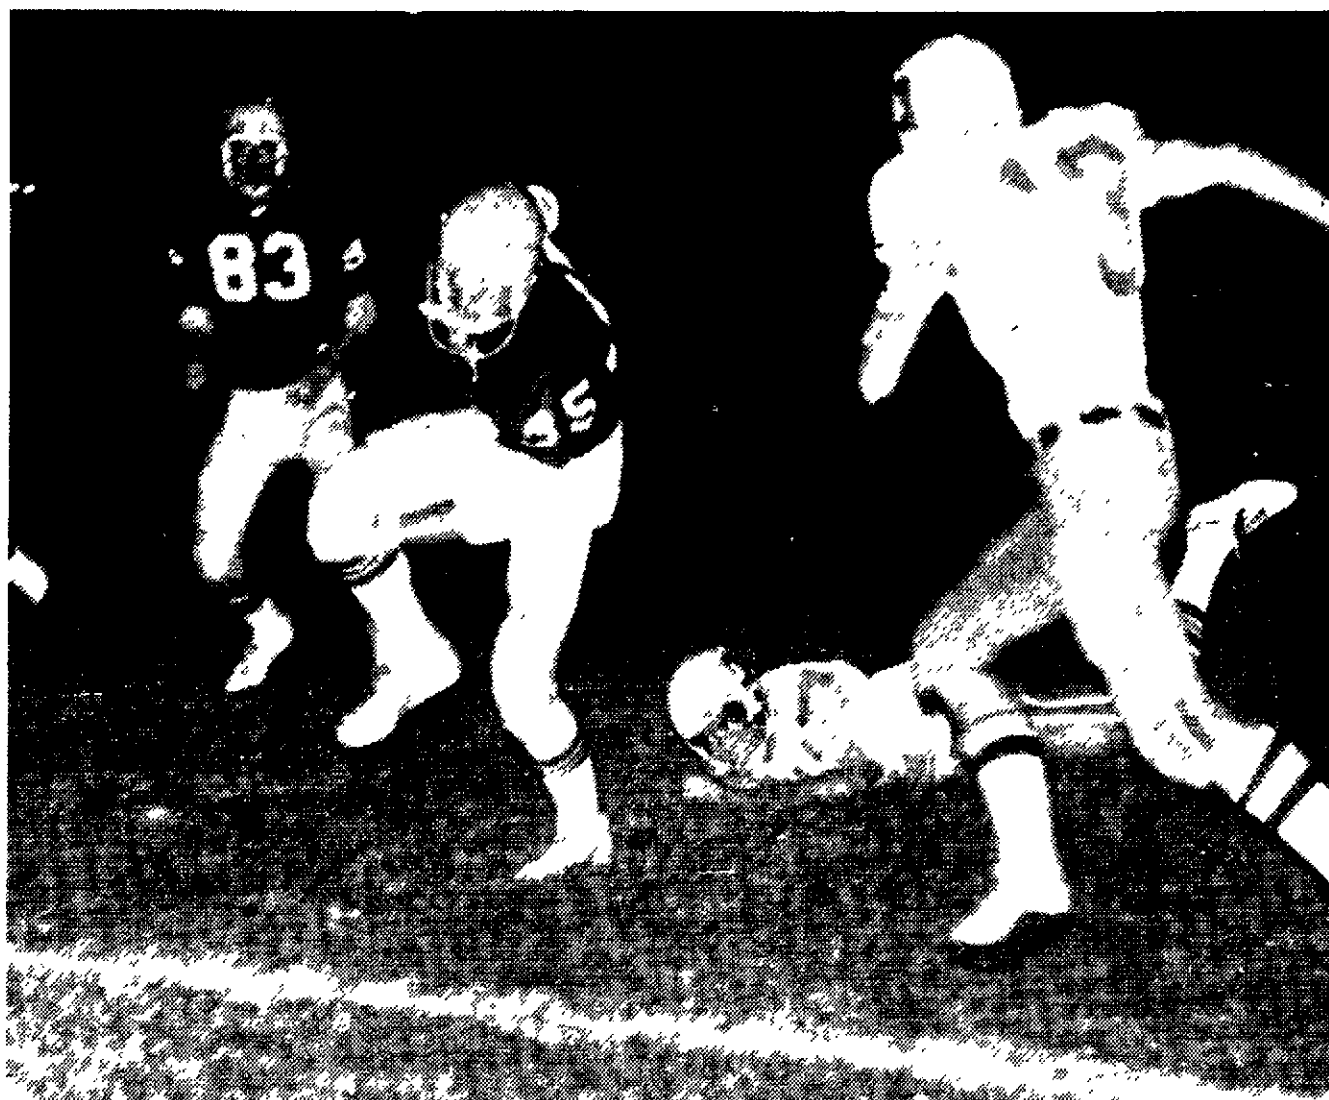

The first punt block came on the opening drive when Lincoln High punter John Beaver's attempt was knocked down by Southeast's Tim McCalloch.

Luckily for the Links, Southeast ran out of downs, but left Lincoln High in poor field position for the entire first quarter.

No. 3 Bellevue Edges Top-Ranked Benson

Omaha — Things haven't exactly been going Phil Swenson's way the last couple of weeks. But all that ended here Friday night when Bellevue's senior tight end found a penny shortly before his team's Metro Conference football showdown against Omaha Benson.

The penny must have worked its magic. Swenson, demoted to second-team status two weeks ago, caught a 13-yard fourth quarter touchdown pass as the No. 3 Chieftans tripped the No. 1 Bunnies, 7-0, before 7,800 fans at Benson field.

"I haven't been able to get my mind off this game for two weeks. That's why I lost my job. They pulled me off the No. 1 team because I wasn't concentrating," the 227-pound Swenson said.

Swenson failed to see action during the first half when both Class A powers didn't generate any significant offense.

His chance came in the fourth quarter. A center snap on an attempted punt hit a Benson up-back and gave the Chieftans a golden opportunity on the Bunnies' 14 yard line.

It took only four plays to push the ball into the end zone.

Bellevue's defense applied the finishing touches, checking Ben-

The Chieftans' only yield was a 25-yard pass to junior end Don Mangiameli with 56 seconds left in the fourth quarter.

Swenson made sure his new stroke of luck didn't fade.

Immediately after his touchdown catch, he gave the penny to junior varsity quarterback Rich Piper and ordered him "to guard it with his life."

Benson coach Roger Sorensen wouldn't criticize his center for the errant snap. "Our upbacks are told to get out of the way if the snap isn't on target," he indicated. "We just didn't do the job there."

James credited his entire defense for an outstanding job. "I couldn't single anyone out," he said. "It was just an excellent overall effort."

Benson finished with only 112 yards total offense and eight first downs. Bellevue produced 189 yards, including 165 on the ground, and eleven first downs.

Benson frittered away an excellent first quarter opportunity to score when the Bunnies' David Henry recovered a fumbled Bellevue pitchout on the ten yard line.

After moving the ball to the seven on the next play, Benson's James Morrison returned the favor, fumbling into the arms of Bellevue's Robert Rickenback with 5:54 left in the first quarter.

Bellevue likely will assume No. 1 ratings status next week after the impressive victory. The Chieftans, now 5-0, must defeat Fremont, Omaha South, Creighton Prep and Omaha Gross to complete an unbeaten season.

Doggett, a 5-10, 170-pounder, displayed the running skills that earned him Journal and Star All-State honors as a junior, as he rushed for 173 yards on 23 carries.

It took all the talents Doggett and his Thunderbolt teammates could muster, to overcome a fired-up Beatrice team which led 21-13 at halftime.

It was the fifth win for the undefeated 'Bolts, and the third time this season coach Vince Aldrich's club has been forced to come from behind to win.

"I don't know if I'm going to live through this season," a relieved Aldrich jested after the game. "You have to give Beatrice a lot of credit for the way they played us."

Coach Ernie Stark's Orangemen played the 'Bolts tough from the opening whistle, jumping to a 7-0 lead with 3:21 left in the first quarter.

Quarterback Doug Lovell, who sparked Beatrice's wishbone by scoring twice and rushing for 80 yards, got the first score of the night on an eight-yard run.

Following the Orangemen's opening score, it took the 'Bolts only four plays to tie the contest at 7-7.

It was Doggett on all four plays, as the rugged senior picked 59 yards including the touchdown on a 14-yard scamper up the middle with 1:12 left in the quarter.

Beatrice roared right back, driving 53 yards in 15 plays with halfback Ron Brannen getting the score on a one-yard blast.

Brannen and fullback Larry Diller were the other cogs in Beatrice's strong rushing attack along with Lovell, as they rushed for 63 and 90 yards, respectively.

The Orangemen quickly built their lead to 21-7, following a Pius X fumble on the 'Bolts 34-yard line which Beatrice tackle Brad Oltman recovered.

Diller got the score with 1:38 left in the first half on a one-yard run and John Parks added his third conversion of the evening.

With its No. 1 Class B ranking appearing a bit shaky and its unbeaten streak definitely in trouble, Pius X quickly moved to the air to score with only eight seconds left in the half.

Quarterback Pat Fuller drilled three straight completions good for 57 yards to move the 'Bolts to Beatrice's six-yard line.

From there, halfback Steve Rohren caught the Beatrice defense by surprise when he flipped a touchdown pass to end Ron Coniglio.

"That touchdown was very important," Aldrich said. "We needed a quick one to get back in the game and to give us some momentum."

The score seemed to inspire the Pius X defense, which had given up 168 yards rushing and 11 first downs in the opening half.

Holding Beatrice to only one first down in the third quarter, Pius X scored twice to take a 27-21 lead. Both touchdowns were set up when Beatrice coach Stark elected to go for first downs on fourth-down situations near mid-field. Both times Pius X held.

"Our defense undoubtedly made the difference in the second half," Aldrich said. "And of course Doggett was really something."

Gaining 108 of his rushing yards in the final half, Doggett grabbed a 22-yard scoring pass from Fuller to move Pius X within two points at 21-19.

He then put the 'Bolts ahead for the first time in the game with a 12-yard run with only :40 left in the third quarter.

Fullback Jerry Kobza added the insurance score on a two-yard run with 6:19 left in the last quarter, before Beatrice's Lovell ended the scoring on a one-yard run with :49 left in the game.

The contest was such an offensive show, that Pius X did not punt once all evening, while Beatrice punted only once.

The 'Bolts, who face Omaha Holy Name next week, upped their record to 5-0 while Beatrice slips to 1-3 and meets Kearney next Friday.

Unbeaten Rockets Breeze By Papillion

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Papillion — The undefeated Lincoln Northeast Rockets cashed in on the big plays to down Papillion, 40-20, here Friday night in an Eastern 1-80 conference game.

LNE quarterback Doug Berka and halfback Steve Elikor provided most of the thrills and the points for the second-ranked Rockets as they boosted their record to 5-0 while dropping Papillion to 3-2.

Northeast fullback Virgil Haase opened the scoring with a one-yard dive that capped a 36-yard Rocket drive, and that was the last typical score of the game.

Tom Svehla then intercepted a Papillion pass with one minute left in the half to halt a Monarch drive that reached the LNE 18-yard line.

The Monarchs were forced to punt following the kickoff. Elikor took the ball on his 26 and raced down the sideline 74 yards to give the Rockets a 12-0 lead.

Fumble Recovery

One minute later, Kirby Monahan recovered a Papio fumble on the Monarch 30 and three plays later, Berka hit Ted Bulling on a 20-yard touchdown pass that he wrestled from the defender's hands for the score. Berka then hit Ron Huber on the Rockets' first conversion to make the score 20-0.

The Monarchs, who gained 291 rushing yards, finally scored by marching 77 yards to close the gap to 32-6 on a Scott Woodard 11-yard run as time expired in the third quarter.

The Rockets' reserve team opened the fourth quarter driving 45 yards to the two-yard line where Rob Farleigh bulled his way in for the final Rockets' score.

Papillion answered with a 76-yard scoring drive to close the score to 40-13 and

A Sports Roundup

BASEBALL

Joe Frazier, occasionally mistaken for the former world heavyweight champion of the same name, was chosen manager of the New York Mets and said he planned to inject new degrees of hustle and aggressiveness into the slow-footed team.

"If I have my way, you're going to see a ball club that hustles," Frazier said. "I stress fundamentals, real fundamentals. I want my players to be aggressive. I want to see them go from first to third base and from second to home on base hits. That's how you win games."

Frazier signed a one-year contract for the 1976 season. Salary figures were not disclosed.

William Veeck Jr., who brought the Chicago White Sox to the American League pennant in 1959 but gave up ownership of the team two years later, has joined a group of associates who have made a tentative agreement to buy the White Sox, the club announced.

White Sox radio and television announcer Harry Caray is as happy as a fan about Friday's tentative sale. Former owner John Allyn said earlier this week that if he still owned the club next year he would fire Caray.

Lett fielder Richie Zisk of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who played the entire regular season without a contract, has come to terms with the club.

The Cincinnati Reds are a 3-2 choice over Pittsburgh in the first game of the NL playoffs, but Harrah's Reno-Tahoe Facebook said the AL series opener between Oakland and Boston is rated a "pick-it" 11-10.

Major league baseball, led by Los Angeles and Cincinnati in the NL and Boston in the AL, recorded its third-best attendance in history. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said.

FOOTBALL

Peace on the pro football front seemed assured for the next two weekends of the regular schedule when Ed Garvey, executive director of the player's union, signalled that all games would be played this weekend and probably the next.

Pittsburgh Steelers' defensive tackle Ernie Holmes will face a subpoena when the Steelers come to Cleveland for Sunday's game with the Browns. Holmes has been ordered to explain why he has failed to pay Larry Myers, a trucker, $25,000 in damages from a 1973 shooting accident.

Wisconsin tailback Billy Marek needs just 10 points in Saturday's game against Kansas to break the 35-year-old Big Ten scoring record of 237 points held by Michigan's Tom Harmon.

Wisconsin coach John Jardine said he is circulating a petition among Big Ten football coaches seeking to suspend an NCAA rule limiting the number of players on traveling squads.

A 14-year-old Miami high school football player, Julio Portela, died from injuries received Tuesday when a lightning bolt directly hit him on the practice field.

Sooners' Incentives Numerous

By United Press International

When the nation's top ranked team is favored by five touchdowns and manages to barely squeak out an uninspiring victory, the coach is sure to say his team was lacking something extremely vital -- incentive.

Such won't be the problem Saturday for Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer, however, when his Sooners host Colorado.

Why?

Try these incentive builders on for size.

For one thing, as an aftermath to last week's narrow 20-17 escape over previously unheralded Miami (Fla.), the United Press International board of coaches decided Ohio State deserved top billing, relegating Oklahoma to the No. 2 position.

For another, Colorado, undefeated in three games, has battled Oklahoma throughout the young season for the No. 1 national total offense ranking.

For still another, the game marks the opening of the Big Eight season.

And, if by some chance his team is still unable to emotionally key itself for the game, Switzer can always point out that 16th-ranked Colorado was the last team to defeat Oklahoma, having turned the trick in 1972, or 32 games ago.

"Our team knows what's in store for them with Colorado," Switzer said. "Last week, I tried to tell my people not to take Miami lightly. Now they know they'll have a fight on their hands from a good Colorado team."

Switzer isn't kidding. Colorado has been good enough to down three opponents by a combined 113-37 aggregate score. The Buffaloes' finely balanced offense is directed by David Williams. The Big Eight's leading passer with a 688 completion percentage, and fullback Terry Kunz, who tops conference rushers with 372 yards.

We should be ready," said Colorado coach Bill Mallory. "I was surprised the way Miami played so well against them. It will make our game with them interesting."

Oklahoma's power offense had more than its share of problems while being outplayed by Miami. In fact, Joe Washington, the man considered most likely to give Archie Griffin a run for the Heisman, gained only 47 yards and the Sooners committed costly penalties in crucial situations.

"We played an unusually poor football game against Miami," Switzer said. "We were lucky to win."

Colorado, meanwhile, romped to a 52-0 victory over Wichita State, executing whatever and whenever they wanted.

"We've got some momentum and you can bet we'll be psyched for Oklahoma," said Mike McCoy, who scored a 99-yard touchdown last week. "It helps to go in off a big win regardless of the competition."

Elsewhere, top-ranked Ohio St. (3-0) visits No. 19 UCLA (2-0-1) third-ranked Southern California (3-0) is at Iowa (0-3). No. 4 Nebraska (3-0) takes on Miami (Fla.) (0-2-1), fifth-ranked Missouri (3-0) meets No. 14 Michigan (1-0-2). No. 6 Texas A&M (3-0) meets Kansas St. (2-1) seventh-ranked Texas (3-0) hosts Utah State (1-2). No. 8 Notre Dame (3-0) plays Michigan St. (2-1), ninth-ranked Alabama (2-1) meets Mississippi (1-3) and No. 10 Penn State (3-1) collides with Kentucky (1-1-1).

In other Big Eight games Saturday, Kansas goes to Wisconsin, and Iowa State travels to Utah.

Undefeated Kansas State has one of the Big Eight's best passing attacks, but A&M is the nation's top defense and has rolled up impressive victories over LSU (39-8) and Illinois (43-13).

Kansas should find a much sterner test at Wisconsin for its new wishbone offense than last week's 20-0 victory over Oregon State.

In Stillwater, Oklahoma State will seek revenge against Texas Tech for the Red Raiders' 14-13 victory over the Cowboys last year.

State College Writer

There's something special about a Nebraska Wesleyan-Doane College football game History

Dating back to 1896, the series, which Doane leads 28-27-5 after taking a 3-0 decision last year, is the oldest in Nebraska football "It's one game we don't have to worry about our kids getting mentally up for," said Wesleyan coach Harold Chaffee Doane coach Ray Best agreed "Anytime Doane and NWU meet, you can throw out the team charts and past records because it's going to be a good tough game," Best said

Although Doane won eight of the last nine games, the other being a scoreless tie in 1973, this year's match in Crete at 7 30 p.m. at Simon Field, figures to be a close game

Both teams are 2-2 going into this Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference opener

"We both have young teams," said Chaffee, "and if the first pre-conference games mean anything, then it will be the team that can capitalize on the other's mistakes that will win."

"We haven't scored a touchdown against Doane since 1970 so we have a lot of incentive going for us," said Chaffee

The Plainsmen offense is working better than in recent years and with a healthy Dan Klaus at quarterback and Paul Cramer returning at running-back, NWU should figure to score more than one touchdown "We've had a good week of preparation and with Cramer and Stallworth (running back Byron) in the backfield we should be solid offensively," said Chaffee

Doane's Best feels that the first four games helped his team adapt and learn the veer offense, installed at Doane this year

"We made a lot of mistakes, like fumbles in our first couple of games," said Best "But now we're looking sharper and our blockers are picking up the keys and we're moving the ball"

Fullback Steve Schulz, the Tigers' leading rusher, and freshman Ted Elm power the Doane veer on the ground while quarterback Gary Knapp has had recent success in the air

But the past five games, the two teams have tallied only 73 points, so the history points to a defensive struggle

"Another factor to consider in the scoring, though, is that for the past six years we've played in the rain," said Chaffee

This Saturday the weather is expected to be clear, but the game will still be close

Brothers Duel
Concordia football coach John Seever will seek to earn his first win of the year when the Bulldogs host brother Gary Seever's Dana Vikings

The Vikings, coming off their first win in 23 straight games, a 38-22 win over Dakota Wesleyan, boast freshman quarterback Doug Meggison, and running back Todd Roecker

Meggison, who has boosted the Viking offense to the number three spot in the state, is ranked second behind Hastings' Rod Schultz in total offense, and also has the second best passing mark in the state with a 114.6 yards per game average

statistics with a 82.7-yards per game average

Hastings-Midland
Unbeaten Hastings will open its NIAC campaign against invading Midland College of Fremont The Warriors, last year's undefeated conference champions and currently ranked 19th in the NAIA division II with just one loss on the season seems to have their offense moving once again following a 16-6 loss to Wayne State

Last Saturday Midland blanked Tarkio, 30-0, behind the running efforts of Dexter Brown and Ruck Klug in the Warrior wishbone, which averages 259.0 yards per game rushing

The Broncos have the material to reverse a 26-13 loss to Midland last year, with a refurbished defense and a powerful pass-oriented offense

The state leader in team offense with a 356-yards per game average, Hastings is led by quarterback Rod Schultz, who leads the state college ranks in total offense and passing

The main reasons for Schultz's success in the air are Bronco receivers Bob Squires and Dave Durrin, the squares and third leading receivers in the state, respectively

Selections

After picking five of eight games in the past three weeks I must start to improve the average by picking (in bold) Nebraska Wesleyan over Doane at Crete at 7 30 p.m., Hastings over Midland, at Hastings at 7 30 p.m. Dana over Concordia, at Seward, 7 30 p.m., Wayne over Dakota State, Kearney State over Pittsburg State, at Kearney, Peru State over Benedictine, at Benedictine, Kansas, Colorado Mines over Chadron, at Golden, Colo., Western Illinois over UNO, at Macomb, Ill.

Nebraska Grads Top Big 8 On NFL Rosters

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Despite what appeared to be a poor pre-season for former Nebraska football players, the Cornhuskers wound up with more players on opening-game National Football League rosters than any other Big Eight Conference team

There were 20 former Huskers in uniform last Sunday when pro football opened its 1975 season That tops runnerup Oklahoma and Kansas which each landed 14 players Colorado was next with 12

Other teams from the Big Eight provided 32 additional NFL players including nine from Kansas State eight each from Oklahoma State and Iowa State and seven from Missouri for a league total of 92

The Cornhusker list included three products of the 1974 team — quarterback Dave Humm from Oakland, and linebackers Tom Rued and Bob Nelson with Buffalo A fourth player, linebacker John Starkebaum, who underwent knee surgery, is on the New Orleans injured list

Veterans among the former NU players are defensive end Ron McDole and cornerback Pat Fischer both 15-year men playing for the Washington Redskins

Humm was one of four rookie quarterbacks to stick in the NFL The others were Steve

Grogan of Kansas State with New England, John J. Jones of Fisk with the New York Jets, and Tony Adams of Utah State with Kansas City Adams, originally drafted by San Diego, but released during the training season of 1973, played in the World Football League last season

When the pro teams got their rosters down to the 43-man limit there were 206 rookies who survived The Chicago Bears led in first-year players with 14, followed by Dallas with 12 Atlanta San Diego and Cleveland each kept 11 rookies

Nineteen of the rookies came from Big Eight schools

Here is the list of former Nebraskans still on NFL rosters (position years in league, and team)

Ted Vactor CB 6 Chicago

January Leading In Kaiser Open

NAPA, Calif (AP) — Don January, making a tour comeback at age 45, exploited near-perfect playing conditions for an eight-under-par 64 that propelled him into the secondround lead Friday in the $175,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament

The slow-moving January, who dropped off the tour for about three years to attend to his golf course architecture business put together a 36-hole total of 134, 10 under par

Lee Trevino, playing perhaps his best golf of the year, swagged home with a seven-under-par 65 and tied Johnny Miller and two others for second place in this late-season event in the rolling hills of the California wine country

Miller, the defending champion, shot a 67 and matched Trevino's 36-hole total of 135, nine under par

Also at that figure were veteran Gene Littler and struggling Marty Fleckman Littler managed a 70 in the beautiful, mild fall weather, and Fleckman, who hasn't made expenses since taking his only tour title eight long years ago, had a 67

"I'm playing good enough to win," Trevino said "It's all coming together, even more than it was when I won that tournament at Orlando It's coming together really good for the first time of the year"

AD Hester Praises Thompson's Abilities

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

Saturday morning, Max Hester will be viewing his second Trans-Nebraska cross-country meet as athletic director instead of cross-country coach for Northeast

And when he watches senior Burt Thompson shoot off the starting line at 10 a.m. for the 2 1/2-mile grind, Hester's adrenalin will be pumping at near the same rate as Thompson's

There's hardly an athletic event going on that Hester isn't in attendance And if more than one is happening at the same time he usually divides his time between the events

Not Uncommon

That's not uncommon for any of the Capital City's athletic directors But Hester has a keen interest in the performance of Thompson — since Thompson started as a sophomore before Hester turned over the reins to new coach Bill Rogge

Hester's coached a bevy of quality cross-country runners including Cliff Karthaus and Ron Greeno whose efforts led the 1970 team to the state championship

Karthaus went on to national honors at Nebraska Wesleyan and a 34th place finish in the Boston Marathon

Top Runner

Burt probably has a little more natural speed than some of my former runners Hester says "He can run a 52 quarter easy and I don't know what his half mile time is but he ran on the two mile relay team last year

Take Karthaus Hester adds He wasn't blessed with a lot of natural speed so he had to make up for it with extra endurance And Burt is strong He's really just coming into his own as a senior

Mental maturity is Burt's strong point right now Hester adds He's made up his mind that nobody is going to beat him and I don't know who in the state can He's broken records almost every time out

He had the same kind of attitude as a ninth grader before we got him, and nobody could touch him," he says "There's no doubt he's among the better cross-country runners we've ever had at Northeast"

East Favored

Even with Thompson the Northeast team doesn't loom as the favorite to capture the conference event since a recent third place finish in the Lincoln Public Schools meet

East ran away with that particular title placing five individuals in the top ten

Kevin Barth and Brian Durigan tied for second behind unbeaten Thompson while Mike Sneddon placed seventh Dan Waddle eighth and Barry Lucas ninth for the Spartans making them Trans-Nebraska favorites

we got him, and nobody could touch him," he says. "There's no doubt he's among the better cross-country runners we've ever had at Northeast."

East Favored

Even with Thompson, the Northeast team doesn't loom as the favorite to capture the conference event since a recent third place finish in the Lincoln Public Schools meet.

East ran away with that particular title placing five individuals in the top ten.

Kevin Barth and Brian Dunigan tied for second behind unbeaten Thompson while Mike Sneddon placed seventh, Dan Waddle eighth and Barry Lucas ninth for the Spartans, making them Trans-Nebraska favorites.

Stander Fight Rescheduled

Omaha (AP) — The heavyweight boxing match pitting Ron Stander against Terry Daniels has been rescheduled for the City Auditorium here Oct. 29.

The bout had been slated for Thursday, but had to be delayed when a gash Stander suffered in his recent victory over Morris Jackson of Omaha, was reopened during a training session in Minneapolis.

There's something special about a Nebraska Wesleyan-Doane College football game. History.
Dating back to 1896, the series, which Doane leads 28-27 after taking a 3-0 decision last year, is the oldest in Nebraska football.
"It's one game we don't have to worry about our kids getting mentally up for," said Wesleyan coach Harold Chaffee. Doane coach Ray Best agreed.
"Anytime Doane and NWU meet, you can throw out the team charts and past records because it's going to be a good tough game," Best said.
Although Doane won eight of the last nine games, the other being a scoreless tie in 1973, this year's match in Crete at 7:30 p.m. at Simon Field, figures to be a close game.
Both teams are 2-2 going into this Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference opener.
"We both have young teams," said Chaffee, "and if the first pre-conference games mean anything, then it will be the team that can capitalize on the other's mistakes that will win."

"We haven't scored a touchdown against Doane since 1970 so we have a lot of incentive going for us," said Chaffee.
The Plainsmen offense is working better than in recent years and with a healthy Dan Klaus at quarterback and Paul Cramer returning at runningback, NWU should figure to score more than one touchdown.
"We've had a good week of preparation and with Cramer and Stallworth (running back Byron) in the backfield we should be solid offensively," said Chaffee.
Doane's Best feels that the first four games helped his team adapt and learn the veer offense, installed at Doane this year.
"We made a lot of mistakes, like fumbles in our first couple of games," said Best. "But now we're looking sharper and our blockers are picking up the keys and we're moving the ball."
Fullback Steve Schulz, the Tigers' leading rusher, and freshman Ted Elm power the Doane veer on the ground while quarterback Gary Knapp has had recent success in the air.

But the past five games, the two teams have tallied only 73 points, so the history points to a defensive struggle.
"Another factor to consider in the scoring, though, is that for the past six years we've played in the rain," said Chaffee.
This Saturday the weather is expected to be clear, but the game will still be close.
Brothers Duel
Concordia football coach John Seever will seek to earn his first win of the year when the Bulldogs host brother Gary Seever's Dana Vikings.
The Vikings, coming off their first win in 23 straight games, a 38-22 win over Dakota Wesleyan, boast freshman quarterback Doug Meggison, and running back Todd Roecker.
Meggison, who has boosted the Viking offense to the number three spot in the state, is ranked second behind Hastings' Rod Schultz in total offense, and also has the second best passing mark in the state with a 114.6 yards per game average.
Roecker, the Vikings' leading rusher last year, is currently ranked third in the state college statistics with a 82.7-yards per game average.

Hastings-Midland
Unbeaten Hastings will open its NIAC campaign against invading Midland College of Fremont. The Warriors, last year's undefeated conference champions and currently ranked 19th in the NAIA division II with just one loss on the season seems to have their offense moving once again following a 16-6 loss to Wayne State.
Last Saturday Midland blanked Tarkio, 30-0, behind the running efforts of Dexter Brown and Rick Klug in the Warrior wishbone, which averages 259.0 yards per game rushing.
The Broncos have the material to reverse a 26-13 loss to Midland last year, with a refurbished defense and a powerful pass-oriented offense.
The state leader in team offense with a 356-yards per game average, Hastings is led by quarterback Rod Schultz, who leads the state college ranks in total offense and passing.
The main reasons for Schultz's success in the air are Bronco receivers Bob Squires and Dave Dirrim, the second and third leading receivers in the state, respectively.

Nebraska Grads Top Big 8 On NFL Rosters

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor
Despite what appeared to be a poor pre-season for former Nebraska football players, the Cornhuskers wound up with more players on opening-game National Football League rosters than any other Big Eight Conference team.
There were 20 former Huskers in uniform last Sunday when pro football opened its 1975 season. That tops runnerup Oklahoma and Kansas, which each landed 14 players. Colorado was next with 12.
Other teams from the Big Eight provided 32 additional NFL players, including nine from Kansas State, eight each from Oklahoma State and Iowa State and seven from Missouri for a league total of 92.
The Cornhusker list included three products of the 1974 team — quarterback Dave Humm with Oakland, and linebackers Tom Ruud and Bob Nelson with Buffalo. A fourth player, linebacker John Starkebaum, who underwent knee surgery, is on the New Orleans injured list.
Veterans among the former NU players are defensive end Ron McDole and cornerback Pat Fischer, both 15-year men playing for the Washington Redskins.
Mick Tingelhoff, a 14-year man with Minnesota, has been elected offensive captain of the Vikings. He's a center.
Humm was one of four rookie quarterbacks to stick i in the NFL. The others were Steve Grogan of Kansas State with New England, John J. Jones of Fisk with the New York Jets, and Tony Adams of Utah State with Kansas City. Adams, originally drafted by San Diego, but released during the training season of 1973, played in the World Football League last season.

When the pro teams got their rosters down to the 43-man limit there were 206 rookies who survived. The Chicago Bears led in first-year players with 14, followed by Dallas with 12. Atlanta, San Diego and Cleveland each kept 11 rookies.
Nineteen of the rookies came from Big Eight schools.
Here is the list of former Nebraskans still on NFL rosters (position, years in league, and team):
Ted Vactor, CB, 6, Chicago.
Bob Newton, G, 5, Chicago.
Keith Workman, G, 4, Green Bay.
Ken Geddies, LB, 5, Los Angeles.
Joe Blahak, CB, 3, Minnesota.
Mick Tingelhoff, C, 14, Minnesota.
Bob Schmitt, LB, R, Giants.
Rich Glover, DT, 2, Philadelphia.
Willie Harper, LB, 3, San Francisco.
Ron McDole, DE, 15, Washington.
Pat Fischer, CB, 15, Washington.
John Dutton, DE, 2, Baltimore.
Bill Oids, RB, 3, Baltimore.
Bob Nelson, LB, R, Buffalo.
Tom Ruud, LB, R, Buffalo.
Jeff Kinney, RB, 4, Kansas City.
Jim McFarland, TE, 6, Miami.
Doug Dummer, C, 3, New England.
Dave Humm, QB, R, Oakland.
Monte Johnson, LB, 3, Oakland.
Six products of Nebraska state colleges also are on NFL rosters. They include rookies Lynn Boden, a first-round draft choice of the Detroit Lions. Boden, from Osceola, played offensive tackle at South Dakota State. He's now a guard for the Lions.

Other Nebraskans include:
Stan Lewis, DE, Wayne State, Browns' rookie.
Kevin Hunt, T, 4, Doane, with Houston.
Randy Rasmussen, G, 9, Kearney, with the Jets.
Phil Wise, S, 5, UN-Omaha, with the Jets.
Marlin Briscoe, WR, 8, UN-Omaha, with Oakland.

January Leading In Kaiser Open

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Don January, making a tour come-back at age 45, exploited near-perfect playing conditions for an eight-under-par 64 that propelled him into the secondround lead Friday in the $175,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.
The slow-moving January, who dropped off the tour for about three years to attend to his golf course architecture business, put together a 36-hole total of 134, 10 under par.
Lee Trevino, playing perhaps his best golf of the year, swaggered home with a seven-under-par 65 and tied Johnny Miller and two others for second place in this late-season event in the rolling hills of the California wine country.
Miller, the defending champion, shot a 67 and matched Trevino's 36-hole total of 135, nine under par.
Also at that figure were veteran Gene Littler and struggling Marty Fleckman. Littler managed a 70 in the beautiful, mild fall weather, and Fleckman, who hasn't made expenses since taking his only tour title eight long years ago, had a 67.

"I'm playing good enough to win," Trevino said. "It's all coming together, even more than it was when I won that tournament at Orlando. It's coming together really good for the first time of the year."

Unmannerly Grandchildren Should Be Taught Rules

By JOANNE FARRIS
QUESTION: "What can I do about my grandchildren? They are 4 and 6, and they are wild. When they come over they rush into the kitchen and open the cookie drawer and then the refrigerator and take out cookies and eat and drink and make a mess without a 'by your leave' to my wife or me."

"I want to sit them down and tell them what the house rules are here, but my wife says they won't love us or want to come here if I lay down the law, and she gets pleasure out of seeing them, although I think she is very much afraid of them. So far, they haven't broken anything, but I think that's inevitable if something isn't done."

ANSWER: I'm with you. They need to know what your house rules are, and the sooner the better. Your wife probably thinks that the mother of the kids should tell them how to behave. I agree with her in that respect, but it's obvious that hasn't happened.

Your only alternative is to deal straight with these children yourself. They are old enough to understand, and if you are fair and firm it will not take them long to learn that you love them but will not tolerate outlandish behavior. In fact, they may even like knowing what the rules are and that they will be enforced.

QUESTION: "My grandchildren are a problem. Their mother never allows them to visit me unless she is with them, and she is constantly telling them not to do this or that or Grandpa won't like you. On the rare occasions that the little girls come over with their dad (my son), we have a nice easy time, but I don't like to complain to my son about this. His wife is a good person, and I am grateful that she brings her girls to see me. What can I do to convince her to let the girls be themselves at my house?"

ANSWER: Your problem is almost the exact opposite of the first one, but in a way the answer is the same.

I suggest that you talk to your daughter-in-law privately. She obviously has some fears about what may happen at your house. Is she a bit afraid of you?

Explain to her honestly how you feel about your grandchildren, how much you enjoy seeing them, and what you would like in the way of freedom for them to be themselves when they are at your house.

Then give her a chance to express her feelings about the visits. You may find that she thinks you expect her to keep a tight rein on the girls at your house, and that she would like to feel that she could relax and let the girls be at ease in your home.

The key to resolving this problem is honesty and warmth. Talk frankly and make your love for the girls clear, so that she knows your true feelings.

Hopefully she will reciprocate with honesty and sincerity, and you will be able to get onto a new footing in your relations with her and her girls.

Delays May Leave U.S. Holding Grain

The moratorium on grain sales to Russia could leave the U.S. holding more than its share of the carryover at the end of the year, according to a wheat marketing official.

Gen Vickers, vice president in charge of the Washington, D.C., office of Western Wheat Associates, gave that assessment to the Nebraska Wheat Advisory Committee at its regular meeting.

Western Wheat is the organization with which the Nebraska Wheat Division contracts for market development in Asia.

Vickers said Russia "seems to be taking any grain from any source, and I don't know what needs they will have when the U.S. moratorium is ended. We need to get the grain moving again."

The Russians had contracted for about 4.4 million tons of U.S. wheat and 4.5 million tons of corn before the moratorium.

Vickers said his information indicates Russia has contracted for a total of about 16 million tons from all sources, including purchases from Canada and Australia.

"They have the capability of handling about 25 million tons a year, which means they could be in the market for an additional nine million tons," said Vickers.

"Purchases they're making could pull down the percentage of carryover wheat stocks held by other exporting countries and leave the U.S. holding more than its share of the world supply," he noted.

On the other hand, the situation could leave the U.S. as the only country with sufficient supplies for export to other nations which must buy grain on the world market, he said.

Vickers expressed satisfaction that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has finally become involved in negotiations for a long-term agreement with the Russians with the inclusion of USDA official Richard Bell on the latest mission to Moscow.

He said sources in Washington indicated that the State Department was seeking an agreement in the range of five million tons of U.S. grain a year to Russia, while the agriculture department is seeking an eight-million-ton level.

Chief Industries Drop Earnings Drop

Grand Industries (AP) — Officials of Chief Industries, Inc., say earnings and sales for fiscal 1975 dropped sharply from the year before, but they are predicting better things for fiscal 1976.

The Grand Industries-based diversified manufacturer reported net earnings of $402,934 for fiscal 1975, down 75.1% from the year before.

Before for the year, which ended June 27, were down 21.6% from the record figures reported last year.

Officials cited spiraling cost increases and continued national economic instability as the major factors in the turnaround.

However, Virgil R. Elhusen, president and board chairman, said he is encouraged by increased sales since the close of the books for fiscal 1975.

Group To Help Low-Income Prepare Wills

An estate planning service for low-income persons 55 and older has been established by the Lincoln Action Program and the Civil Clinical Law Program at the University of Nebraska.

Law students will help prepare wills for 30 people who meet the economic requirements of the Lincoln Legal Aid Society.

For example, a qualifying family of four cannot have an annual income exceeding $5,550; a family of two, $3,820.

Meet Star Carrier Danny Convey

If there is a field of endeavor in which Danny Convey hasn't excelled, it may just mean that he hasn't tried it yet.

A carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star in Falls City, Danny has increased his route by 27 customers in only six months.

This increase coupled with his prompt and early service have earned him the Inland Press award as well as many compliments. "Danny is one of my best all-around carriers who does everything well, has a good attitude and plenty of enthusiasm," says supervisor Bud Rublee.

Market Gain Is Sharpest Since August

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rode hopes for easier and cheaper money to its sharpest gain in more than a month Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 18.66 to 813.21, for its strongest showing since it soared 22.45 points on Aug. 28.

The Dow's course for the week traced a deep V-shape. After falling 34.44 points through the first three sessions, it recovered all but 5.31 of that loss in the last two trading days.

The tally Friday on the New York Stock Exchange showed 1,131 gainers and only 264 losers among the 1,775 issues traded.

Big Board volume hit its highest level in two weeks at 16.36 million shares, up from 14.29 million on Thursday. But the total was still modest by early-1975 standards.

The NYSE's composite index picked up 1.10 to 45.49, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up 2.13 to 85.95.

The initial push came in Federal Reserve figures issued after Thursday's close showing a sharp drop in the nation's money supply.

That gave rise to hopes that the Fed could loosen up on its policies that greatly affect interest rates while still pursuing its avowed goal of keeping the money supply growth from reaching overly inflationary levels.

And the central bank appeared to take a step in just that direction during the session Friday, making a move in the money market that touched off an immediate slide in key short-term interest rates.

Shortly before the close it was announced that Telex Corp. was dropping its antitrust case against IBM, a landmark favorite on Wall Street, and that IBM was in turn ending its counterclaims against its smaller competitor.

Both issues were halted in trading for dissemination of the news, and neither reopened before the close. Telex traded last at 2 1/4, up 1/4, and IBM at 195 3/4, up 2 1/4.

Among other big-name growth issues, Digital Equipment climbed 7 1/2 to 120 1/2; Texas Instruments 7 1/2 to 99 1/2; Eastman Kodak 4 1/2 to 94 1/2; and Xerox 2 1/2 to 57 1/2.

All but one of the 30 blue chips in the Dow gained ground. The exception, Esmark, which recently split 5-for-4, was off 1/4 at 29 1/2.

Financial issues which are normally sensitive to interest-rate developments posted some strong gains. Federal National Mortgage rose a point to 13 1/4 in active trading, and among the savings and loans, First Charter Financial gained 1 1/4 to 11 1/2 and Gibraltar Financial picked up 1/4 to 8 1/2.

Pan American World Airways topped the NYSE's most-active list, up 1/4 at 4 1/4. A 394,300-share block traded at 4 1/4.

Gold mining issues were one of the few weak spots as the bullion price dropped back in world markets. ASA lost 1 to 30 3/4, and Homestake 3/4 to 37.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .84 to 83.21.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market rose 1.34 to 75.50.

Moody's Cuts New York City Credit Ratings

New York (UPI) — New York City's credit ratings slipped again Friday.

Moody's Investor Service sharply reduced credit ratings on New York City bonds for housing, transportation and education.

Unmannerly Grandchildren Should Be Taught Rules

By JOANNE FARRIS

QUESTION: "What can I do about my grandchildren? They are 4 and 6, and they are wild. When they come over they rush into the kitchen and open the cookie drawer and then the refrigerator and take out cokes and eat and drink and make a mess without a 'by your leave' to my wife or me."

"I want to sit them down and tell them what the house rules are here, but my wife says they won't love us or want to come here if I lay down the law, and she gets pleasure out of seeing them, although I think she is very much afraid of them. So far, they haven't broken anything, but I think that's inevitable if something isn't done."

ANSWER: I'm with you. They need to know what your house rules are, and the sooner they know the better. Your wife probably thinks that the mother of the kids should tell them how to behave. I agree with her in that respect, but it's obvious that hasn't happened.

Your only alternative is to deal straight with these children yourself. They are old enough to understand, and if you are fair and firm it will not take them long to learn that you love them but will not tolerate outlandish behavior. In fact, they may even like knowing what the rules are and that they will be enforced.

QUESTION: "My grandchildren are a problem. Their mother never allows them to visit me unless she is with them, and she is constantly telling them not to do this or that or Grandpa won't like you."

"On the rare occasions that the little girls come over with their dad (my son), we have a nice easy time, but I don't like to complain to my son about this. His wife is a good person, and I am grateful that she brings her girls to see me. What can I do to convince her to let the girls be themselves at my house?"

ANSWER: Your problem is almost the exact opposite of the first one, but in a way the answer is the same.

I suggest that you talk to your daughter-in-law privately. She obviously has some fears about what may happen at your house. Is she a bit afraid of you?

Explain to her honestly how you feel about your granddaughters, how much you enjoy seeing them, and what you would like in the way of freedom for them to be themselves when they are at your house.

Then give her a chance to express her feelings about the visits. You may find that she thinks you expect her to keep a tight rein on the girls at your house, and that she would like to feel that she could relax and let the girls be at ease in your home.

The key to resolving this problem is honesty and warmth. Talk frankly and make your feelings for her and your love for the girls clear, so that she knows your true feelings.

Hopefully she will reciprocate with honesty and sincerity, and you will be able to get onto a new footing in your relations with her and her girls.

Market Gain Is Sharpest Since August

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rode hopes for easier and cheaper money to its sharpest gain in more than a month Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 18.66 to 813.21, for its strongest showing since it soared 22.45 points on Aug. 28.

The Dow's course for the week traced a deep V-shape. After falling 34.44 points through the first three sessions, it recovered all but 5.31 of that loss in the last two trading days.

The tally Friday on the New York Stock Exchange showed 1,131 gainers and only 264 losers among the 1,775 issues traded.

Big Board volume hit its highest level in two weeks at 16.36 million shares, up from 14.29 million on Thursday, but the total was still modest by early-1975 standards.

The NYSE's composite index picked up 1.10 to 45.49, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up 2.13 at 85.95.

The initial push came in Federal Reserve figures issued after Thursday's close showing a sharp drop in the nation's money supply.

That gave rise to hopes that the Fed could loosen up its policies that greatly affect interest rates while still pursuing its avowed goal of keeping the money supply growth from reaching overly inflationary levels.

And the central bank appeared to take a step in just that direction during the session Friday, making a move in the money market that touched off an immediate slide in key short-term interest rates.

Shortly before the close it was announced that Telex Corp. was dropping its antitrust case against IBM, a glamor favorite on Wall Street, and that IBM was in turn ending its counterclaims against its much smaller competitor.

Both issues were halted in trading for dissemination of the news, and neither reopened before the close. Telex traded last at 2 1/4, up 1/4, and IBM at 195 1/4, up 6 1/4.

Among other big-name growth issues, Digital Equipment climbed 7 1/2 to 120 3/4; Texas Instruments 7 1/2 to 99 1/4; Eastman Kodak 4 1/4 to 94, and Xerox 2 1/4 to 57 1/4.

All but one of the 30 blue chips in the Dow gained ground. The exception, Esmark, which recently split 5 for 4, was off 1/4 at 29 1/4.

Financial issues which are normally sensitive to interest-rate developments posted some strong gains. Federal National Mortgage rose a point to 13 1/4 in active trading, and among the savings and loans, First Charter Financial gained 1 1/4 to 11 1/2 and Gibraltar Financial picked up 1/4 to 8 1/4.

Pan American World Airways topped the NYSE's most-active list, up 1/4 at 4 1/4. A 394,300-share block traded at 4 1/4.

Moody's Cuts New York City Credit Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York City's credit ratings slipped again Friday.

Moody's Investor Service sharply reduced credit ratings on New York City bonds for housing, transportation and education.

Moody's said it was dropping the ratings on bonds for the city housing and transit authorities from "A" to "BA" because of "very large speculation whether bondholders will get paid when due."

The "A" rating is relatively high. "BA" is one rating short of default. Bonds for educational construction fell from "BAA" to "BA."

Moody's lowered the rating on New York State's general obligation bonds from "AA" to "A1," further jeopardizing New York City's shaky fiscal stance. A "AAA" rating is best according to the Moody's scale.

Small Supply Sends Hog Prices Higher

Sheep were nominal.

Looking at the weekly trends in brief:

Barrows and gilts closed 50-to-75-cents lower, while sows over 500-pounds were called steady to 50-cents lower, and weights under 500-pounds were 50-cents to $1.50 lower.

Steers and heifers trended 25-to-50 cents, instances 75-cents off.

High-utility and commercial cows turned firm to 50-cents higher, but other cow classes were weak to 50-cents lower.

Prison Rehabilitation Coordinator Charged

Omaha (AP) — The coordinator of the Urban League of Nebraska prison rehabilitation project was charged Friday with intent to deliver controlled substances and possession of a firearm by a felon.

U.S. District Judge Albert B. Schatz set bond at $50,000 for Clifford H. Davis, 49, Davis, a former assistant to Omaha Public Defender Frank Morrison, was arrested early Friday following a drug raid at his apartment.

Vice and narcotics unit officers entered Davis' apartment on a no-knock warrant issued from Municipal Court Judge Elizabeth Davis Pittman Thursday night after an informant told them heroin could be found in Davis' apartment.

Police said they confiscated an ounce of heroin in bulk form, plus seven tin foil packets of heroin and a small amount of cocaine. Police said they also seized $1,600 in cash, a 22-caliber pistol and a stereo set which police said had been reported stolen.

No felony charges were filed against a 24-year-old woman arrested in the apartment with Davis, authorities said.

Davis was the center of controversy in 1973 when Morrison sought Douglas County Board approval to hire Davis to work with law violators and Sheriff Ted Janing opposed the hiring.

Janing said he didn't think he could trust Davis with prisoners since Davis had spent 22 years in prison on several convictions, including bank robbery, bank burglary, breaking and entering, and narcotics possession.

The board approved the hiring, but Davis resigned seven months later after being arrested and charged with being a felon in possession of a firearm. But the charge later was dropped when authorities found the gun was properly registered to his son.

Freedom Train Leaves Omaha Without Engine

Omaha (AP) — The American Freedom Train is continuing its westward journey for the Bicentennial, but it's missing one very important piece — the big locomotive.

When the train pulled out of Omaha last weekend, it was being pulled by a reserve engine. The regular locomotive remains in Omaha for repairs to its giant, 21-foot diameter wheels.

Officials said the wheels had worn down during the train's cross-country trek, and that a cutting and grinding down of the wheels is needed to make sure the engine does not slip off the tracks.

Ordinarily, the repair work is done with a machine, but there are no wheel grinders in this area big enough to handle the job, so it's being done by hand.

The work is expected to be completed by the middle of next week, and the locomotive will set out to catch up with the rest of the train.

Fort Restoration Okayed

By United Press International
A project for restoration of the hospital and granary buildings at Fort Robinson have been approved by Gov. J. James Exon, clearing the way for the State Historical Society to proceed with preparation of preliminary drawings.

The State Historical Society staff has submitted an estimate of $108,950 for restoration of the veterinary building and $15,000 for the granary.

The legislature made $100,000 available for the project with half the money state funds and the other half federal.

Fort Robinson is west of Crawford on U.S. 20.

Commission To Wait On U.S. 30 Plan

Grand Island (UPI) — The regional planning commission has decided to reconsider a previous decision regarding improvement of U.S. 30.

During the commission's September meeting, approval was given to a plan to widen West Second St. and use raised medians along a portion of the improvement area. That was one of the alternatives in the U.S. Hwy. 30 functional study completed in April.

The commission's original recommendation was contrary to director Nelson Helms' suggestion.

Another public hearing on the matter will be scheduled.

At the September hearing, several Grand Island businessmen opposed making the street one way and favored the widening proposal. The estimated cost of the project is more than $3 million. Construction would not begin until sometime after 1980.

Judge Prevents Certification Of Recall Petitions

North Platte (AP) — Lincoln County Court Judge Ron Ruff signed a restraining order Thursday preventing the county clerk from certifying petitions seeking a recall election of the three county commissioners.

The petition drive was started by residents opposed to a land use zoning proposed for the county.

The issue will go to district court where a permanent injunction will be sought by the 14 county residents opposing the recall.

The petitions were signed by 9,100 persons in a drive headed by Mrs. Max VanArsdall of Hershey.

Opponents of the recall election say the petitions were not properly circulated or notarized and some signatures are false.
